NAHASHON HARRISON

Nahashon Harrison was born the first son of Harrison Ikua and Jane Wachera Ikua. After his father's demise, when Nahashon was six, he and his younger brother, Kim, were raised by their grandmother. Parts of his childhood were spent in Endarasha, Kieni West, where his mother's family was at the time. His mother worked in a small town in the Rift Valley (Gilgil) as a businesswoman and a caretaker.

Nahashon attended Endarasha Primary School and Charity Secondary School in Nyeri graduating in 2006. During his sophomore year at Nairobi Aviation College, he authored his debut book, a semi-autographical memoir CONQUEST BY WILL, and went ahead to publish it after graduating from college in 2016.

Nahashon made his first professional short stories sale ("My Ultimate Destiny", "The Devil's Pawn" and "The Hyenas of Bura") to other startling mysteries in 2021.

Introduction

In my early 20s, I was obsessed with women and I craved a happily ever after tell-tale with one. I tried so hard to keep relationships and every time a girl left, I was disappointed because I held onto the belief of each one of us having a soulmate. I knew so many men of my age who took their own lives because they had been left by their girlfriends. They were obsessed with the idea of a forever and ever love story. This was a pandemic not affecting only me but the world at large.

It really gave me a hard time and I struggled with my attempt to process the reality that was dawning on me each time I had a relationship and it crumbled. When I started my writing career, my focus was all on writing epic fiction novels. All this changed when I interacted with people from all walks of life with whom we shared experiences. This is where I discovered that there was a problem deeply rooted in the way we related with the opposite gender. All this determined how we lived our lives, right from family as the basic unit of the world. As I turned 35, I had interacted with a bunch of people with whom we shared an interest in human mannerisms and behavior. Quite a big part of this book contains perceptions and perspectives gained through my own experience and interactions with different people across the world.

I have been asked,

"Why do you hate women so much?"

I have never been misogynistic. My writing is ruthless according to who is looking. Because as human beings, we never accept our flawed nature, and I am aware. If I have to write what consoles the masses, soothe them with lies, I am not going to write—it would be pointless.

If an author wants to sell many books, he should write romance. If he wants to be famous instantly, let him comfort the masses with lies. I would rather be hated. I love delving into topics that the masses hate. I developed some interest already. The typical feminist is bilious when it comes to topics delved into herein. But we must create awareness so anybody who dares read it will be prepared beforehand. Men will know what to expect when dealing with women, and women will understand themselves better.

If I wrote about women, they will not like it. Because women hate themselves so much. Without masculine energy, the woman will burn herself to ashes. They are like moths; they drift closer to the flame. They always get burnt. I understand why patriarchy was important. Look at the world now, It's all messed up. Children with no fathers everywhere. A broken family unit. Look at everything great in the world. It has men's print on it. The biggest corporations, those breathtaking innovations, the great skyscrapers, the best car model etc. were designed by men.

So, men got to be men. They will be taught by other men to bring back the order, to save the world.

What happens when we have no men in the world? Your guess is as good as mine. The world will crumble. Same case applies when we have no women, the world will crumble too. So, in the next century, man will correct his mistakes by accentuating patriarchy.

Women are naturally nurturers. They thrive at nurturing, and not laying bricks. They are not good at the battlefield—only in movies!

Without women, where would humanity come from? I have always thought of the vagina as the source of life. In your consciousness, you are aware that the universe exists. Talk of the milky way and the galaxy, tiny planets arranged strategically in it. What happens when you die? The universe stops existing. It only exists in your consciousness. The universe doesn't exist when you are dead.

The vagina is the 'source' of life.

Everything you see around you, the people, the hustles and bustles, the universe, the activities, etc. originate from the vagina.

A wiseacre said,

"Pussy(women) and money run the world."

This is what he meant exactly. All the activities of the world are run by the need to create more life. This is how I see it.

Even in the dark world, they use the genitals of a virgin in their rituals for the same reason.

Without women, there would be no source of life. We all popped out of the vagina. We are humans. Animals too came from the female vagina. But human beings have sense. This is why we follow some orders. Without this order, the world will crumble.

The order starts from the world's basic unit which is the family. If the family is dismantled, the world crumbles. And this is why men are inserting their penises in other men's anus and claim that they were born that way. Because a faulty programme has been installed in their brain. If someone is not morphologically/physiologically female, why would they THINK that they are female? They only THINK they are. Why would a physiologically male human being snub the vagina to insert their penis in the anus? Where is their intellect? Is this about pleasure, a purpose or he is a product of brainwashing? He is only operating a programme installed in him by someone.

The family being the basic unit of the world, man and woman have to come together. If you want to ruin it, tell women that marriage oppresses them and thwarts their endeavors in pursuing their dreams. Tell men that the patriarchy (it is in the real sense, but that's the right order of things, anyway) is oppressive to them. The family will scatter.

Family starts by the initiation of a mating game by the woman. She is a marketer. It all starts when she markets herself through advertising. It is always virtual. The man completes the process by pitching. This is why men lie and women wear makeup. Meaning the man only asks and the answer will be either yes or no. So, in the real sense, it is the woman who starts the relationship by saying yes. For if she said no, the relationship would not have started, to begin with.

So, whose game is it?

Before we talk about men, women have to come first. We must study them like the headlines of a newspaper. To save the world, books must be authored. And people have to read to understand the game better so that they will know how to behave.

If an author shares criticism, nobody should twist it to look like misogyny. If he describes women behavior, he only pinpoints who they really are and how they play this game.

This game is life itself.

We cannot live a fulfilled life without asking the following questions:

Who are we?

What is our purpose?

And how does it affect general life?

The Hoe Phase Narrative

The hoe phase is a narrative coined to fool the simple-minded men who do not have the slightest hint about the escalation of women's behavioral patterns. A promiscuous woman will always be like that no matter the age. It does not matter who she is and where she is at. She will always exhibit this behavior because it is deeply rooted within her core.

This behavior does not have an expiry date. She is going to exhibit it till the day she dies. She can camouflage and hide but it will always come out in the end. Never lie to yourself that she is going to be promiscuous for some time to only abruptly stop—that's who she is!

Most times when it looks like they have changed, it is due to the deterioration of their sexual market value and their sexual appeal. This makes them to “reform” because most men tend not to prefer them since younger and sexier women have emerged in the market. This is when the old, prostituting women would look for a naïve, unsuspecting man to settle with them as a fallback plan.

Even if she has jubilated in wrapping a naïve man with her small finger and chance to prostitute herself emerges, she will definitely do that without an iota of remorse. Time does not change promiscuous women; marriage does not change them even for an inch. They will always be like that till the end of time. As a young man looking to be active in the dating arena, you must snoop and peruse a woman's past—and not just that, you should judge it harshly.

Tactics Used by Women to Lure Beta Men in Their Sunset Years

- Allurement
- Transition

Allurement

When a 29-plus rebellious woman has been kicked out of the market by sexual value depletion, she must look for a fallback plan. After giving herself to many men in her prime years, she is now ready to lure a not-so-smart beta male to get to commit to her. She is eager to salvage her sorry situation no matter what. Her poor estimation had lied to her that she would be able to get full life fulfillment by giving herself out and cashing out from her body through casual sex. She forgets that rich women too have a lot of money and still need a man by their side. The reality comes crawling in and now they have no choice but to look for a way out.

When women are in this stage, they are desperate because the clock keeps ticking. If you tell them that you want to marry them, they won't even waste a minute. They want the marriage to happen as soon as the next Saturday. They won't say, "let me think about it" like they used to say in their prime. They want to make you to get to commit before you come to your senses.

To get a beta male hooked, they will do the good things that noble women do to men like being submissive and cooking for them. They are only doing this to hoodwink these men. This is not who they are. They are only selling deception. The beta male will come to his senses later because he will be snapped back to reality by her filthy actions.

Transition

After winning the beta male and putting him under incarceration through a committed relationship/marriage, now it's time to be herself. It is time to show her claws. True colors come out. She starts being rude. Her submissiveness vanishes. Sex becomes less and nagging soars. The house becomes like a battlefield. Chaos becomes the order of the day.

If you did not spend her prime years with her, she is not a widow and is past 30 years of age, that one is only good for other things and not marriage. You cannot be with that one for long-term engagements. Avoid diving nose-first into a pit of hell where other men have lost themselves before you. Use your common sense and judge her past harshly.

The Digital Woman

90% 21st century women will never tell you outright that they want you for whatever reason. One, a woman will never want you so that she can love you. Don't ever feel special if she ever confessed how much she does because “love” is a sugarcoat for something else. In short, no woman is capable of loving you as a man. They only love what you do for them and not you as a person.

A woman places her ego above her needs. For instance, if she ever dares put her ego below her needs, you will never see any value in her and you would outright turn her advancements down. For example, a man puts his ego below his needs. This is why he seduces a woman he likes directly and asks to have sex/relationship with her. With her bloated ego being placed above her needs, she uses manipulation tactics—they come with it inbuilt.

As a man, do not feel special you were able to put a woman “in the box”. It does not work like that. The whole time you thought that it is your seduction tactics that made it possible for you to bag her. You are lying to yourself. First, she wants you, then she places herself in a position you can easily reach her. Meaning that she is the one who starts the relationship indirectly and not you as the man. Do not feel special that you were able to bag that woman. It's a lie you live to tell yourself.

In Briffault's law, a woman is wired to root for a good father for her children. "Good" can simply be defined as the ability of that male to provide first, and then the rest like protection follows. So, in real sense, the woman is the hunter, and not the man. This is why 99% single mothers are to blame for what befell them. Because nature has instilled something unique inside of them but I have never understood what incapacitates them when it comes to using these senses. They choose a bad man over a good man. In short, women love bad men because they are too selfish to even think about their offspring sometimes. If you are a nice man to her, in the end, she will punish you for it.

This is why it gets funny when a man gets vexed that his woman is initiating conversations with men online. She was never doing any of that for the whole of that time. Women do not move like men do. Their tactic is divergent from men's. It is like comparing a rhino and a lion. If they had to engage in a fight, the lion would use the teeth while the buffalo would use its horns as a weapon.

First, a cunning woman will throw herself out there. This tactic is strictly for cute women because most times, the ones with the audacity to message you on social media are always the 2/10s. The Marilyn Monroe can't. She would be wearing apparels that are revealing, will be flaunting their curves and cleavages, etc. This is an invitation to treaty. They are advertising themselves. Unlike men who sell themselves by pitching, women advertise and market themselves. The words for conviction are not needed. And this is why misinformed men think that women are always initiating conversations—they don't!

After throwing herself out there the men will now ask her. Just check her inbox. There are thousands of them. She cherry-picks which ones to answer and which ones to snob off. Even the one writing “no DMS” is always throwing herself to the DMS of high-value men. Check the photos and thirst traps they post on social media showing off their bahookie. All these are red flags. See what your woman posts on TikTok. Most of them are always sexualizing themselves by posting their nudity to entice men. A not-so-informed man will ignore these red flags. And if you dare confront such a woman, if she is really into you, she will change for you and if she is not, she will say, “accept me as I am”.

If you are a professional presenting yourself online, check her inbox. You will 100% find out that if you are a lawyer, she is entertaining other online lawyers who are above you there. Just understand she did not message any of them. She threw herself consciously or subconsciously to them. Never feel special when a woman says, “I love you”. How does she love you yet she is throwing herself to other men at the same time? If you ask her about it, she will say, “we are just friends”. The friend is always your co-boyfriend or replacement.

Women Overestimate Themselves

Many women do not know that they would never go beyond 3 if we had to gauge them in a scale of 10. They have been lied to by the media, family and friends since they were little kids and so they have grown up not being in touch with reality. In the dating pool, women's value is gauged through their beauty. The more beautiful she is, the more she is willing to harness it to her advantage. Beauty is her currency that will help her to navigate life—it's a lifesaver for her.

Some women overestimate their values considering that they could be a 2 in a scale of 10. If you ask them to rate themselves on that scale, they would shamelessly say that they are a 10. This has nothing to do with love of oneself. It is blatant hallucination. They are not doing this intentionally. They have been programmed to live in confusion and self-deception and they are not even aware of this. Most women overestimate themselves, unlike men who are always underestimating themselves.

A harem of women would give counsel to their fat friend not to exercise because she looks “hot” the way she is. They would go further to say, “any man who is not comfortable with her flabby tummy should go jump in the sea.” Others would lie to their friend that she was too cute for a certain ex or partner. These women are not doing all this to proliferate their self-worth, but it is in their nature to keep denying reality because they are deluded to the core. This is why most of the average men cannot get partners easily because all their counterparts (the women) want billionaires to take responsibility and use their money to spoil them and maintain their non-existent beauty.

If you tell an ugly woman the truth, she will outright go ballistic and label you a misogynist. This is why you should normalize ghosting cute women as a man. Do not accord her special treatment because she is cute. If she is nonchalant, just delete her contact and behave like you never met her. Just because she has a pretty face does not mean that you should put extra effort or make sacrifices. Let her give the same energy that you are giving.

Don't pamper her. Do not pay her rent or any bills. Do not join the long queue of foolish men maintaining her fake standard. Let her go to work. Let her put effort in making her money. She is not special. Do not give in to her manipulation games. Just ask her, “are we doing this or not?” If she is hesitant, move on and explore other women and you will find the one for you. Snub those ones who have been brainwashed since birth. They have been told they are queens, little did they know that they are just ordinary girls like the others in their neighborhood.

It doesn't matter whether you belong to the same class with a woman. She will always want to date above her without considering whether the man above her would prefer her or not. She doesn't care whether she is in the spec of a woman that man would date.

Gender Value Parameter

A man is born with zero value. His value is his provisions. In normal circumstances, a man is supposed to appreciate in value as he ages. Man creates value by finding something to do, by discovering his purpose, and nurturing his talents and skills. In the modern world, a man's value is measured through his money and properties.

A woman is born with her own value. A woman's value is mostly gauged through her beauty, youthfulness and femininity. Her value is measured through her submissiveness and not through her money and education. This is why a woman never buys some land and builds a house to marry a man. She is the one that gets married in most cultures of the world. A woman's money can only be of value when she compliments her husbands at home or when she is dating an exploitative man. A woman needs to be taken care of in the patriarchal arrangement. She does not need to take care of her man financially in the archaic arrangement. So, her value as a woman could not be measured through her provision and money. It is not her job to provide but the man's.

A sane man looks for ways to proliferate his value. He avoids marriage if he has no tangible value until when he has put all this in order. A woman is naturally materialistic because she is wired to root for the survival of her offspring. If she was not like that, her children would not survive. A man must prove to the woman that he can provide before they can bring forth an offspring. This is why she is mostly hypergamous. She wants a man who is above her, and not below her. If she can provide everything for herself, she becomes masculine. A man is masculine too. Two men cannot live with harmony under the same roof.

A woman only needs three things from a man:

- Provision
- Protection
- Penetration

When you as the man provide and fail to penetrate her (satisfy her sexually), she will look for that elsewhere. This explains why we have a lot of rich people whose wives cheat on them with the gardener.

Relationships are based on value, meaning, the highest value you give, the more benefits you get. If love is commodified, the highest bidder gets the most benefits. This is why the lesser the value you give as a man, the more no vendor will be willing to do business with you. The highest bidder is the lucky one. In reality, that's why broke men get no woman. Women are going rounds with the few high-value men and neglecting the low-value ones.

In their 20s, men are struggling with themselves trying to discover who they are. They have not sharpened their skills and so in the dating pool, their value is extremely low. A few women would consider these men for dating. They would prefer going for older men who have their value sorted. This is why eighteen-year-old women are not compatible with men the same age. The women are in their prime immediately they turn eighteen while the men are in theirs as the age advances. For example, a 35-year-old man is compatible with an 18-year-old woman in the dating arena if it has to lead to marriage. The man is now in his prime because he is not in the age bracket of discovering himself but has advanced to the wealth accumulation age.

Women in Game

90 percent women will never directly face a man to tell him that they would want to be in a relationship with him. Women do not want to be in a relationship to love men as seen earlier. They are there to be catered for by him. Women are not capable of loving men. It is only men who are capable of loving women unconditionally. Even in the bible, women have been instructed to be submissive to men. Men on the other hand have been instructed to love women.

As seen earlier, the woman places her ego above her needs. The reason for this is always because a man cannot see her worth if she places her ego below her needs. A man places her ego below his needs because he is the trophy in the relationship. If he is not interested, it is the woman who is going to lose because she does not bring anything extra in the relationship like the man who apart from his body brings his provisions. A relationship will always be like a job for women. They keep on earning a salary. The same is like business for men because they have to keep on pumping in capital.

A man directly pitches himself to a woman and asks to be in a relationship with her. For a woman it is different. With her bloated ego being placed above her needs, she uses manipulative tactics. After putting herself out there and a man brings himself to woo her, she will say yes and the game is over.

Example

This woman in my neighborhood, her name is Wangeci. She's tried so much to throw greenlights at me and I have behaved like I noticed nothing. Recently, we met at the joint near the road and accidentally hung out. In our general conversations, she outright told me about her past experiences and all. She hinted to me about a guy she used to like. She talked of how she threw greenlights to him and the guy did not get to notice. I outright asked her if the guy she was talking about was me. She said, "yes."

I asked her if that was supposed to make me feel special. With their usual fear of rejection, she hesitated. I asked her what she has done that she thinks it's a greenlight on my side. She said that she checks on me all the time. She messages and asks me if I have eaten. She told me that she is cute and has canceled myriad men to be on my case.

I almost screamed.

I told her that this means nothing to me. So many women as cute as her checked on me every day and so she should never be tempted to think that she is special. I did not tell her this straight up but I let her know that she was tripping by wearing an evil smirk.

Women should learn from men. Men are not scared of rejection. This is why the biggest corporations, innovations and institutions have men's print on them. Men always come tomorrow and try again even if yesterday's victory proved futile unlike women.

Women with their bloated ego know that a relationship that a woman starts might last longer than that one started by the man but they always turn a blind eye because of the subconscious notion that the man won't see them worthy. A woman would rather settle with a guy she doesn't like and go ahead to do paternity fraud than seduces a guy she likes directly.

The Junk of Programmes

Every now and then you have heard women complaining that their man cannot satisfy them in bed. Most times, it is always the ones with a vigorous sexual past. A fresh woman can be satisfied by just kissing her or gently touching her clitoris.

If you cannot satisfy your woman on bed, it is definitely not her mistake but yours. You probably do not understand the dynamics involved. Every time you pick a woman, she is coming with a programme and a mindset she picked from your predecessors. This is why her body count should matter to you. Every time you pick an older woman, be ready to deal with a lot of mannerisms that she had picked from her past sexual experiences with other men.

Women have tendencies of making your tortilla the way her ex liked it. They are like a piece of mattress. They absorb every little thing they observe from their lover. From music and the vocabulary he likes. She is going to mirror everything you like as the man. You will be her big influence in her day-to-day life. If she has dated fifty men, just know she will be influenced by these fifty men. She is a bonafide product of these fifty men. She is going to treat you in bed the way she used to treat them. And she will expect you to treat her the same way they used to treat her. This is why you should avoid older women who have had sexual encounters with multiple men if you have to consider her for a long-term relationship. You will be attracting chaos in your life. Do not, in any way whatsoever commit to these ones. Just have casual sex with them, climb down and get going.

When a woman says,

“You are not good in bed and cannot make me come.”

Who does she compare you to? Her orgasm will always be triggered by a mindset. This mindset is a programme subconsciously installed into her by someone else. And this is why both of you must hold conversations so that she can tell you where she wants to be touched to experience an orgasm.

Do you think she was born that way?

She was not! She is running a programme installed by someone. She will suck your ears the way John wanted to be sucked. She wants you to do it the way Mathew used to do it. If your Techno gadget is faulty, you take it to the Techno and not Nokia stores for trouble shooting. If you cannot make her orgasm, just ask her to give you the manual. This manual was written by men in her past and it is the only way she can experience pleasure. She is a junk of programmes that you must learn how they operate. She can only be satisfied by treating her a certain way designed and installed by someone. They won't tell you this but this programme was installed by a manager or a supervisor at her work place.

You may be having sex with some woman and she will tell you to touch her ears as you suck her tongue concurrently. She will uncontrollably palpitate and violently orgasm like never before. So, don't be funny when you tend to believe that God created her that way. There are a few choices for every man out there to make:

- Find a girl with no programming. Install your own just the way you want it.
- Find a girl with little programming, put effort and override the existing programme with your own.
- Get the one with deep programming, play along, learn it by referring to the manual of her past lovers.

The choice is yours!

The Genesis of Feminism

“Marriage is not an achievement.” Is mostly a phrase from a 40-year-old, unwanted, menopause-ravaged, lonely, deluded villain of our times. Men are used to being told off at an early age. They are used to accepting the cold, harsh realities when they are little boys. They are used to being told that they are ugly and short and all sorts of bad names are hurled at them day in day out. They do not sugarcoat when describing men. You will never find a woman sugarcoating a man's lack of money and poverty. They call out broke men on their faces.

On the other hand, men are not allowed to treat women as they are. Even when she is not attractive or good-looking, you are not supposed to say it in her face. Even if she is fat and has three visible stomachs, you are supposed to call her “chubby” and not “fat”. You are supposed to call her cute to protect her feelings. You are supposed to lie to her. They cannot handle rejections and live in illusions and especially at the ages of 18-30.

Women in this age bracket tend to not know a single thing to do with reality. Even the ugly one has a man at her account throwing her attention and calling her “beautiful” even when she is ugly as sin. Also the one going rounds in the market with a bad head has a man throwing some punch lines to woo her.

What about men?

Men are used to loneliness since they were little. Nobody cat calls them or shows them any attention. This is why most men succeed. Because in that loneliness is where innovations are born. Pick random girls and sample their behavior. The cuter she is, the more her communication skill is on the lower side. Try messaging them. 80% cute women cannot hold a conversation. This is because the cuter she is; the more messages she receives from all sorts of men. And women are not knuckleheads as people try to purport. They are not smart either—depending on who is looking. Amidst this conundrum of a harem trying to woo her, she becomes delusional and loses her touch with reality.

Reality starts crawling back when they hit 30. At this age, most of them have started losing the multitudes of men who used to camp wanting a piece of her. The lifespan of a slay queen is around 12 years (18-30). Even in the internet today you will see a girl writing, “DM only open for business” on her bio. This is only meant to scare away the low-value man. The same lady is drooling over another man and she cannot resist him.

The rules women make for the undesirable type of men, they always break them for men in the spec of what they would want to date. Women cannot handle being single and lonely. If any of them is single, just know that every man they want do not want them. There are a few men in the world who are their “type”—directly translated to powerful, rich men. If she is with you today, don't lie to yourself that it is going to be forever. You were better than nothing. They will jilt you immediately a better man comes along. To them, man is not gender but performance.

Listen to your mother. You will hear her quarrelling with your unmarried older sister as she persuades her to get her own man. It is because your mother is older and understands the dynamics of life. She is enlightened and is aware how lonely and cold up there where reality reign is. Between ages 18-30, many women do not want men their age. But when these men hit 35, these ones who snubbed settling with one man to cash out her beauty with multiple men has her prime declined and so they become bitter because many men would prefer younger ones than them.

They will go ahead to label these men pedophiles. They will open pseudo accounts on social media as retired veterans to bash men. They will try to recruit the younger ones to hating men because misery loves company. They are only jealous and they are willing to do anything to brainwash and win their hearts. If the patriarchal arrangement entails a man taking care and being the custodian of the woman whose ways can easily destroy her, then how can we say that a woman being in a relationship weighs her down? This is a manipulation tactic by the so-called feminists.

Feminism Is Flawed

Feminism is greatly flawed as long as they keep advocating for equal treatment of genders yet they do not campaign for equal responsibility. In the past century, we equalized both the boy and the girl. They all go to school together, and chase their dreams together but there is always some bias that plays in the sidelines that makes it look like it were not equality to begin with.

For feminism to sound sensible, we want to see both man and woman being treated equally. Equality will cease having a meaning if it is biased. We want to see men and women being given equal opportunities, not just in the corporate world but in everything else. There should be the same number of women as men in the construction industry. We want to see women plumbers, mechanics and toilet diggers. We want to see women soldiers on the frontline in battlefields because they are equally men.

In the past, men and women were not equal. Men fought dangerous animals. They died like fireflies in the battlefield. When the Titanic was on the verge of sinking, it was strictly women and children first in the lifesaver boats. Because men were not equal with women. They were deemed superior than their counterparts the women. We should now start seeing equal number of men and women working as truck loaders. If we cannot, then men and women cannot be deemed equal in any way. That kind of equality is utterly biased.

We never heard women advocating for equality in the ancient times when men were sacrificing their lives to build an ambient world. The women waited until the man was able to build air-conditioned offices and now they had the audacity to crawl in throwing tantrums asking to be included.

They wanted to be equalized with the man because the days of struggle had lapsed. They were not willing to put in the work but were ready to bask in the ambience. Equal opportunity could be low-key cry for sexual liberation. Men provided everything but not a variety of penises and dick energy.

If they can provide for themselves, they are equally men and hate sexual accountability. Women are fighting for opportunities on a silver platter but they did not want to have it on merit. They are not special than the men—they are equal!

To be a feminist means focusing on one sex, embracing bigotry, hypocrisy, misandry, sexism and disinformation—make claims that you are not like that, insult them misogynists and rape apologists if they disagree with you. It is a movement that demands for equal rights ONLY for women when it should be demanding for,

- Equal rights.
- Equal accountability.
- Equal obligations.
- Equal consequences.

Women get offended by men's actions but feminists are quick to say that men ought to respect women. They go ahead to say that men have fragile egos every time they are offended by women's actions. The modern time feminists have lost touch with reality and have no idea what they are advocating for.

They are a bunch of misandrists who have morphed into bitter villains. They say that their men are supposed to hold car doors for them, allow them to have a voice, and pamper them like a child, his money will always be their money and her money will always be her money and all at the same time they should be equal.

As a feminist, you are not supposed to tell a man to accompany you at night even if your house is located at the middle of a dense forest. You are supposed to protect yourself because you are equally a man. If you are engaged in a fight with a man, you two are supposed to beat each other into a pulp—you are equally a man. If we encounter a wild animal attack, you are supposed to defend yourself as a man should.

Men should not care if a pregnant woman is in the bus. They should not stand up for her to sit down. Let the woman's strong legs carry her. Let her persevere the pain as the man she is. She should not cry when she hurts. She is not a weak, stupid man. Let her protect herself as a man would because there is no man to do that for her since they are equally the same. But no! each of the gender is unique in its own way—women cannot be equally men. They will always be women!

Marriage Is Not a Barrier

Marriage does not prevent a woman from achieving her goals in life. It doesn't prevent her from learning, growing and traveling the world. It doesn't barricade her from achieving anything. Most women will be quick to say that they are snubbing marriage to “focus on themselves” or “find themselves”. Do not let them lie to you. If there is any woman out there saying these things to you, just know that she is a Jezebel craving sexual liberation. She wants to cash out her prime and beauty. She wants to exercise her hypergamous nature without a barricade. Her endeavors will be earning through casual sex.

Every time a woman gets to say this, deep down she is referring to the penis thrills she is about to encounter. Don't listen to their “I just wanna live my life” sentiments. Just know that they are about to scout more schmucks than Harambee Stars junior team. This is why you should avoid women in their 30s like leprosy. Why do you think they are the right females to commit to? They could not conform to simple moral codes and they are now cornered. Let them drink from their own cup.

Imagine going to a party in the evening to collect plates and wash them all this while using your own money and water to buy detergent. It is like buying yesterday's newspapers today. Any time you wanna get engaged with such a woman for long term engagement, ask yourself why you and not another person. The higher the penile mileage,

- The ruder and disrespectful she is.
- The higher the un-submissiveness.
- The hard bonding with her will become.
- The more she will compare you with other men she had sex with.
- The more your relationship with such a woman will be unstable.
- The more the baggage. Mostly children you did not sire.
- The more the chaos like a plot of land sold to many buyers.

How do you know her penile mileage?

Check her age. The bigger the age, the higher the penile mileage.

In the end, such women who decided to ravage their prime might end up with cats. This will trouble them because a woman will never be fulfilled without a man. It doesn't matter they have a lot of money and they are rich. A woman without her man will always be sad and lonely. And not unless the said woman uses her money to lure a beta male to be her companion. She has to find a feminine man because she is the leader. If she does not have the acquisition power, she will end up being a weird, bitter feminist.

Women can hawk their bodies all they want. They have shagged different breeds of dogs for financial liberation. They have gone ahead to insert cucumber, bottles, drilling machines and cooking sticks inside of themselves for sexual thrill. Others have gone ahead to become useless. They have no school credentials or any other thing apart from their womanhood. They do not plan out their lives and all they do is engage themselves in a wild penis circus. They have walked out on good men because they did not meet their expectations and fake standards. They have glorified and worshipped sexual escapades with different men. They have enjoyed sampling different penises and pulling out a wild dick circus—it is their body; it is their time.

At one point in their lives, not so long to stretch beyond 13 years, they will crave normalcy. They are going to beg god for redemption. They will be slapping their breasts on the wall and crawling on a hill of thorns. They are going to pray for a husband, that one who heals hearts he did not break and steps up for children he did not sire.

Luck won't be on their side. They are going to meet such a man eventually toward the end of their lives during rupture—that man is Jesus Christ. Son of the most high God.

Most of these cork explorers do not lose their virginity to “their man” because their extreme hypergamy nature leads them into the erotic world where they tend to go through the “bad boy syndrome”. Here, they are only attracted to high-value men who have higher sexual market value. These types of men only pipes and swipes (have sex with them and never commit). And now “her man” has to come along to cure these men's trauma in that woman. It doesn't matter the situation but never, in your life, be “her man”.

The Pajama Narrative

Pajamas are good. But it is not worthy buying secondhand pajamas. Someone with a bigger fanny than yours could have owned that pajama before you. It might never fit your physique and it might give you problems and do not forget that its ability to stretch is always affected by age. Go for new pajamas. These ones you can adjust them to fit your physique. They are tight and dynamic with their stretching power intact. Secondhand pajamas are saggy and dirty. Wearing them is unhealthy. One might catch scabies and other varieties of skin infections. They are not fit for wearing. Even wearing them as you walk in the shops to buy something the owner might see you and recognize them. Do not purchase second hand pajamas no matter your situation.

Not just pajamas but second-hand phones too. When you buy second hand phones in the dingy trenches of River Road, just know you are bringing chaos to yourself. That phone must have been used by numerous people in the past. Fingers of different sizes have pressed its buttons. Other buttons might be missing too don't you think?

Mostly smartphones might be having viruses in them. They contain accounts of the previous user and he might even decide to remotely control them. Mobile phone technicians might recognize it easily because the same gadget might have gone through their tools a couple of times.

That phone must have been charged with numerous cables of different color, width, shape and sizes and the charging port might be problematic. Be ready to be drained financially too as you try to maintain the old, rugged, almost crushed gadget. Form a habitual routine of buying new gadgets and especially people living in the ghetto. If you cannot access/afford to buy a new phone, please use the booth once in a while as you continue working to save enough for a new phone.

The Zebra

If_you try to domesticate a Zebra because of its beautiful stripes, you are going to fail terribly because the animals are extremely wild and cannot be domesticated. You will always be attracted to it because it is more pulchritudinous than the horse. You might snub the horse to try and domesticate such a liable animal and you won't be knowing that you are unanimously bringing chaos to your life.

A Zebra has tendencies of camouflaging from being detected by dangerous, devouring hunters like those huge carnivorous beasts. This Zebra will endanger your life as the farmer for it will attract strange tourists and other hunters into your compound. Nobody can eliminate the wildness in that animal. Thus, it should be left to live and die in the forest. It belongs to the wild. Be a wise animal keeper. Do not snub horses for Zebras that bring nothing but liability. Avoid wild animal attacks.

Don't Be a Hyena

Lions and hyenas are both carnivorous animals but one of them exhibits a very funny character. Lions hunt and kill any animals they like. They choose and bring down a prey of their preference to quench their desire. They pass around the meat until the pride has gotten enough. They enjoy the party until the meat goes bad and becomes a rotten chunk of carcass. Overused, maggot infested and stinking. It is no longer fit for consumption. The cubs are warned by being told that the meat is no longer fit for consumption and especially by kings.

The lions abandon it to concentrate on hunting younger, beautiful preys with tender meat. They fling it back to the streets once and for all. The strolling, scavenging hyenas come strolling in an endeavor to look for something to eat. They bump onto the rotten carcass with bite marks from the king lion and makes a mischievous chuckle. They accept that meat the way it is ignoring the stench and scars from the previous predators. Running away with the rotten carcass, the hyenas laugh as Bonobo monkeys. The lions after seeing that turn around with disgust as they continue munching their fresh prey. They look at each other only to say, “The hyenas should always get what fits them.”

Woman Replacing Tactics

A woman will never leave a man instantly. She first starts by abhorring her current man because of various reasons. The biggest reason a woman would resolve to jilt a man is because of his underperformance. Women are wired to prepare a world for their children and so they are ruthless when it comes to replacing a weak man with a masculine one. After resolving that her current man is a weakling, she will now start the journey to find him a replacement. Many women are living with their current men because they have not found them replacements. They are still searching for a better man day in, day out.

She starts by withdrawing first. By this time, she is already having sex with her man's replacement as orientation. Most times, women will never leave to be with themselves. Remember the man is subconsciously a woman's slave. They will always leave to be with a man better than the current one. If the man is wealthy and abusive, they would rather cover them up and stay.

Women live with and cover up abusive, wealthy men but jilt and expose the broke ones—they fear poverty more than death.

“People always outgrow each other.”

They always spew such sentiments and a wise person would never buy to those lies. This only means that they found someone better.

“I have been single for three years now.”

Is coded for:

“I have been having sex and sampling a variety of guys to see if there is someone to commit to me but I have been unlucky.”

And not unless nobody wants her completely, a woman will NEVER be single. As seen earlier, “single and independent.” means something else. They live a life of sexual liberation.

When she starts withdrawing from the man, she is seeing someone else. To be sure, she will make one step forward and another one backward. She is only trying to ensure that your replacement will be worth it in the essence that he will be better than you as the current man. She will then go ahead to jilt you for good. Immediately she starts being hesitant, delete her and get her a replacement. Behave like you never met her— otherwise, you are going to become a finished man.

A man should never sit there to wallow about a woman leaving him. Many men pedestalize women and forget about themselves. They hate themselves so much. A woman threatening to leave a man should be seen as a joke. The reality is, a jilted man is going to meet women who are better than the previous one. A woman telling a man that, “you will never find another like me.” Should be treated like a comedian. A man should stay in the forest and focus on his journey sometimes. He should only appear when he wants to release his scrotum before disappearing again. A man should never take it lightly when a woman resolves to incarcerate him like a damned prisoner by committing to her. He will be able to save a lot of money to actualize his dreams and do the things he loves.

A man should always be ready to hold the door for any woman who wants to exit his life. He should be sure to explore better and prettier women in future than that one. He should let her trot out. It is like garbage taking itself out. A man should never be overruled by a scarcity mindset. He should be like the barracks, soldier come, soldier go— it is so sad some men kill themselves and the woman because they are scared of being on their own. They suffer from Oneitis.

Women jilt men all the time with zero remorse. They cheat on the man every day because he is poor. Most women are serial cheaters. Most men are bringing up children that they did not sire because of the unpopular paternity fraud. They are manipulative and will always play victim in the long run. They cheat with other men in an endeavor to replace you but she comes back because the man had not been serious enough to wife her. In fact, many men won't have a hint that the children they are bringing up are children of other men with their “my wife loves me” attitude.

How many times did women shame men by calling them broke? Do they blink when doing that? This should always be a morale booster to level up. How many times did they ever blink when broke shaming men and showing them their middle fingers? They outright become rude and un-submissive in the slightest sign of a man's poverty and insecurity. If God of benevolence visits a man, he should not be ashamed of getting a woman of his dreams. A man should unleash the desires of his heart without remorse because the woman never flinches when a better man comes around. Man should equalize it by jilting any woman who cannot level up to his standard too.

Women Entitlement

A man should never dream that one day he is going to date a poor woman. Why in the name of God can't every woman out there give herself all that she expects another person to give her? Why would someone hate herself to such an extent of not wanting to give herself things until another person does it for them?

Why is an understanding girlfriend the one dating a broke man and not the other way round? Why does it have to come from the man always? How does someone who is a fully grown adult deprive herself of the good things until they come from someone else? This is the reason behind most of those types of women not being content with anything they receive from a man. Normally, nobody can jubilate in giving you something you desire like you can give it to yourself.

“If he does not love you, you will never get to know how men love providing for women they love.”

These are sentiments always dropped by these types of women and they are extremely obnoxious. But the question is, would the skies fall down if such women provided for themselves? Do they hate themselves so much to such an extent they do not want to provide for themselves? Why does it have to be another person? Will anything happen if these types of women become the people who are at the position of giving others money and things? How selfish of them?

Have they given up that much on themselves that they do not believe they could make money as the others? Why do they keep on fighting for spaces in rich men's heart instead of working hard to become rich themselves? Men would rather not dare associate themselves with these kind of women. Such mindset will forever cripple a couple's endeavor when it comes to building a home.

It's obvious such a woman will never love a man for who he is. This is why a man should thoroughly vet a woman before committing to her. They should do away with the ones who do not want to spend on them. If she cannot part with a dime to appreciate the man for being in the spec of a man she would want to be with, the man should be smart enough to know that the woman is only there for his pockets and what he can do for her. She is a mere exploiter.

If the man is not worth it, obviously, the woman would not want to be with him. And nobody spends a dime on anything not worth it. This sounds awkward and not what many men are used to. But man ought to understand. If she cannot use her money on him in his good times, she will definitely jilt him in his bad days. That comes and happens to everyone. That's why you hear others saying and complaining that they did this and that to the family and now the man has to save bank statements as evidence to show in future that he paid the kids' school fees because the woman keeps on giving herself credit while she discredits the man in front of their children like it was some kind of a competition.

If she is getting money from the man as a hustle, the man should never cry when he is left because that's all he is going to get in the end. She cannot be loyal to the end because her love is a commodity sold to the highest bidder. What should anyone expect? The first red flag is her not spending on you as the man while she expects you to spend on her all the time.

It's completely insulting for a man to work extremely hard only to end up with a person who has no idea of how to put in the effort. Why does the man have to be the one to lift such a person from her mediocrity? The man should always avoid broke women in the era of equality and he won't have to regret that all he got was left.

Her Baby Daddy Is Her Alpha Man

If she is a single mother, do not disrespect her. She is a good woman. You can be her man if you want. If you want to have her sexually without commitment, that is up to you— But before you commit to her, you should judge her past harshly. If she is not a widow, then you must ask yourself why she fell out with that baby daddy of hers. Probably, she is bad-headed and rude and everything undesirable.

Cross your legs as she narrates to you how the ex was a toxic man. She is probably lying and trying to manipulate you into believing that her ex was the problem. She could be the culprit but won't blink when pulling out a victim card. Other men get married and get a wife. Why would you want to get married only to get a wife and children that you did not want? Are those not baggage and chaos that you are outsourcing from the one who should be responsible? Are you Jesus Christ to save sinners from the ravaging consequences of their actions? Who cursed you to deserve all that injustice?

A real man should never stand to own up other men's mess. A padlock that can be opened by another key is not secure. It will have your house robbed. Marry such kinds of women if they come with these three things:

- Financial liberation.
- Abroad citizenship to a first world country.
- Connections.

A 28-year-old woman will only come with responsibilities and chaos. The more the penetrations she encounters, the unrulier she will be. Every time a penis penetrates a woman, a little value flies. And the more difficult bonding with her it becomes. She is forever going to compare your penis with all the penises that penetrated her in the past.

Her baby daddy is a reflection of herself. There can never be an upgrade until she seeks to upgrade herself. If both her and the baby daddy were in a genuine relationship, that baby daddy is her perfect match. And not unless her hypergamy was insensitive enough to dumb her down to the deception of having a child with a married man.

The undesirable wavelengths projected by baby Mamas are reciprocal of direct reflections from their baby daddy. He is broke, she is broke too. The two are materials cut from the same cloth. This is why they got attracted to each other. Or we can simply fault the woman for not being able to choose her offspring the right father. To get her offspring the right baby father, a woman must know the dynamics and thoroughly vet him to be able to decide whether she can become a good father for her kids or not. A woman should be what they want to attract first. A baby Mama who wants to fix herself and ensure that the cycle does not repeat itself in the future must be willing to do the inner work before anything else.

Fixing oneself caves inwards and not outwards. Every time a baby Mama casts a finger at her baby daddy, three fingers are pointing at her.

Chances that a baby mama will ever get a better man than the previous one are always equal to zero. Not unless she puts in the work to become extremely desirable by overriding her baggage with value that the man lacks. Considering that the value of a woman is gauged through her beauty, fertility and youthfulness, she must be pretty, youthful, and fertile as the first gate pass.

The child will have toppled this value for one, this is baggage that has to be dealt with and this will need financial resources to solve. So, if she has money, her own job and can comfortably cater for this offspring, then, another man will never see this offspring from the previous relationship as a baggage/barrier. Not to throw in the sentiments about high-value men being sufficiently philanthropic but this should never apply in relationships. If a man wants to step up for other men's children, he should find the best children's home, or he should just adopt kids—otherwise, he will be deemed not to be as smart.

A woman rejecting her baby daddy without improving herself is subscribing for heartache. She either perseveres and rocks alone in the cold which is kind of impossible when it comes to women who are never stoic at all. She will end up selling her dignity in the name of fending for her children hiding in the umbrella of, “I’m single. My life my rules.”

She will end up messing her life further or probably she is going to get a downgrade in future after desperation. A man whom a woman gives a chance to sire a child with her is a perfect man if the woman herself is not extremely flawed. He is qualified to be her husband.

Can a woman respect her man and he goes ahead to be toxic without valid reasons? Of course, that man is her choice even though not perfect. If he does not have enough money and his provisions are maimed for some time, this should not be a loophole to become un-submissive and disrespectful. In the 21st century, both boys and girls go to school together and chase dreams together. A real woman will never look for another man if her own is not able to perform. She should go out there and look for a job instead. If she gets the money, she ought to become his helper and not his rival. She doesn't become a co-leader. Her money should complement him as she sticks behind him. Just because a woman becomes financially liberated does not mean she becomes the man while her husband becomes effeminate. If truly she becomes unruly and quits the relationship after the financial liberation, that means she was only peddling deception and the relationship was a poverty alleviation scheme.

A woman's baby daddy will always be her original husband. The step father being used to take the responsibilities is playing another man's paused game.

The Alpha Mindset

An alpha man is not that one who does not drool over women and pedestalize them. An alpha man is not born like that. An alpha man is the one who can comfortably provide. All the other characteristics attached to it are secondary. It is characterized by actions, consistency and a mindset that must be mostly dominated by focus. Just because someone sets their mind they will become the president of the United States does not mean they will. It has to be realistic. It doesn't mean gods become presidents—humans do. The mindset must be followed by actions plus other determinants that the person in question must pursue. This is why character is the first requirement.

Your best friend could be not so smart in school—you could be smarter than him and all the other children and your future would look brighter than everybody else's. The day you sit for your primary school examination, you will pass well and he won't because you are smarter than him. This is a lie you would live to tell yourself.

That your friend who failed in his examination will enroll in a mechanic course and you will continue with your education. You will not make it to becoming a doctor if your consistency in maintaining high grades will be maimed. Not just you but the consistency of your parents in paying your school fees could be incapacitated and you might drop out of school. Because you did not complete your education, you might find yourself being beaten by life. You might find yourself being hungry and homeless.

This is when you will remember your best friend who failed in school but enrolled in a mechanic course at twelve and was consistent. You will look for him and he will sort you out because life would have treated him so well because of his mindset that brought prowess in his field of work. It would never mean that your mindset of wanting to excel in education was flawed but somehow it could reflect your ability to resolve things and the maimed consistency.

You could resolve to enroll in a mechanic course too like your friend because you have discovered that this can save your life. There is a big probability that you might not like that mechanic course because it conflicts with your mindset. You might quit it and go back to your un-purposefulness. Alpha man means pinpointing a skill and being consistent in it without trying to job-hop. If you choose to be a D.J., be consistent. Perfect your skill. Persevere even when the days are bad. Wake up and show up even when you feel like you want to give up. Start early and don't flinch. Being alpha man sometimes is making wise decisions, and not intelligence. Intelligent men too can be beta males depending on the choices they make and how solid they are in executing their actions.

Again, as discussed earlier on, we can compare some human beings with monkeys. A troop of monkeys has only one alpha male and a hundred beta males. The female monkeys instinctively know that the alpha male in the troop has the best characteristics to pass on to their offspring, unlike the beta male's abhorrent characteristics. The female monkeys will never seek to sire their offspring with the beta monkeys. It is the alpha's sole responsibility to impregnate all the mature females in the troop. These beta males spend the rest of their lives trying to access the now mother monkeys for sex. They have the burden of taking care of those young ones they did not sire so that they can get a little chance to have sex with their mothers. It is not a great deal when it comes to animals. It is such an abhorrent character when it comes to human beings.

“Patriarchy Oppresses Women” Is A Manipulation Tactic

Even though the patriarchal arrangement has been demonized by the women craving sexual liberation, it preserves and ensures the continuity of society. The family is the basic unit and an orderly world cannot exist without it. If patriarchy is banished and dismantled, that means the world will be in chaos in the next one generation. We mostly derive our values from the family we came from. So, abolishing patriarchy would mean a messed-up world.

Looking at it objectively, we can realize that patriarchy is oppressive to men and not women. It is mostly the feminists who demonize patriarchy because misery loves company. They have aimed to recruit young women as much as they can so that they can join them in their misery. They have tried marriage and failed due to their craving for liberation (mostly sexual liberation).

Most women who cannot submit to a man are mostly looking for self-destruction. These women cannot reach perfection without the intervention of masculine energy in their lives. It is the ones who want to liberate themselves financially and sexually that cannot keep a man. They have always fallen into this trap of self-destruction when they are in their prime and their sexual market value is at the peak. It has always been self-deception. They live in a delusional state until they approach the decline of their prime. After the men who drool over them start withdrawing, they will now come back to their senses. From here they now become bitter and morph into feminazis. They create parody accounts to attack men.

As seen earlier, in a relationship, it is the woman that chooses the man and not the other way round as per popular belief. A woman chooses the desired male and waits for him to pick her. Remember the day you as the man seduced her and she said “yes”. It wasn't as instant as you think. She loved you long ago but she waited for you to choose her. If you didn't, her heart would be shattered into shreds.

That day you declared your interest, she had the choice to push you away and there is nothing you could have done. So, her saying “yes” ignited the relationship. A girl loves you before you do. She saw you first. You have no say in the relationship and as the man, you cannot decide how that ends—she does!

If you look around you and peruse the world, you will realize that it is women who initiate a bigger percentage of divorces.

Why?

Because she is the steward and captain. The man thinking that he is the head is reverse psychology that was probably innovated and initiated by the same women. They trick the men's mind into believing that they are the stewards while in the real sense, they are not. This might be subconscious, though. The women might not be aware that they are doing this. It is the work of nature's programming in them. The man is the slave and working machine in the proper patriarchal system. The woman lives in comfort and doesn't work. She must be pampered by the man like a child and so she must innovate means to make herself look vulnerable on his fronts, like a toddler.

She must manipulate the man to believe that she is “cute” and fragile. This is a form of trickery. Who would want to pamper a grown-up, anyway? They had to innovate means to trick the man into believing that he is not “cute” himself. In the real sense, man is cuter than woman (no gay shit). Look at the fine muscles protruding from his distinctive abs. You cannot compare that with the flaccid body of a woman. It sounds funny when somebody tries to relate a “work machine” with beauty. In reality, man is more beautiful than woman (not in a sexual way). This has something to do with the psychological programming of human beings. We are only supposed to discover the beauty of women because it serves the purpose of sexual appeal that will proliferate attraction to initiate mating.

Society brainwashes the man to believe that he is worthless without a woman/someone to slave for. So, the man spends the whole of his life wandering in the world looking for something to kill him. This is the design of an exploitative system. If you ever tried to frequently look at yourself in the mirror as a man, the girls will outright call you out. They will shame you and manipulate you into believing that you possess an abhorrent, feminine character. This is because a man is not even supposed to notice his beauty because this will mess his programming that stipulates that only women are supposed to be beautiful. A man is purposely supposed to be a work machine.

If you are cuter than them and have lighter skin, they will outright call you out. A man is not allowed to look cute in front of women. An androgynous man is disgusting to them. It does not sink in their mind why a man is a blonde. This only reduces his chances of him being their slave.

If anybody wanted to troll a man, they would call him a sissy. He will get offended because he is brainwashed to believe that he is the lion of Judah. If you try to peruse the factual side of it, there is nothing! Only gaping reverse psychology and massive tactics for exploitation. A girl tricks you into believing she is “cute”. Before you know it was trickery, you have already sired two children that you are supposed to cater for. If you try to evade these responsibilities, they will take you into the children's court and if you are poor, they will live the whole of their lives cursing you with “deadbeat” insults. On the other hand, being the custodian of the offspring gives you value as the man in the societal eyes. Women too derive their livelihood in the essence of being that man's offspring mother. A man will always be trapped between walking out to liberate himself or staying with the “exploitation” that gives him honor in societal eyes. The “real man” is that one who chooses to stick to the exploitation arena.

This is why we can say that when a woman submits to you is a form of manipulation. She is the one controlling you to work for her. The system is designed like that. But there has to be a brainchild which has to be the same women. Have you ever been mugged in the street while the culprits screamed that they were being robbed when in the real sense they were the ones perpetrating the atrocity? The same reverse psychology is applied in the patriarchal system. The woman determines whether a relationship survives or not. She chooses you by pinpointing particular traits in you.

Mostly the relationship crumbles because the captain operates through emotions. She is more sensitive to hurt, aggression and all. She will quickly shut off and abandon the ship to become a wreck while she serves the man divorce papers on a platter, cold and raw.

Women Hate Reality

Most times, women employ a rebuttal mechanism to sugarcoat their problems and conditions. They are always ready with their claws out to use harsher words on men going through the same in their descriptions. You will be sitting with a woman in public transport but she will detest you because you are poor for example (according to her thinking). She won't hesitate to tell you in the face if you dare her in a game of seduction. It is you as the man who is poor and not her. No matter how hard you try, you might never convince her for a lifetime that you are on the same level. Her standards will always be proliferated even when she cannot afford them herself.

A woman will not blink when calling a man fat, hippopotamus, obese and so many other harsh words. She won't even sugarcoat when describing such men. As seen in previous contexts, a woman is never fat. As a “rational” man who is not misogynistic, you cannot dare use such a word on a woman and not unless you want to start a fight. They do not prefer such words. They want to be called thick. You can call them chubby too, or bold and cute.

If a man struggles to maintain his erection, they shame him even without a second thought. He is impotent for crying out loud. It doesn't matter the situation which the man is in. If he doesn't hold up for long and ejaculates too fast, they call him a one-minute man. If the man's penis is not the size of their previous man, they call him a toothpick man. He has a decimal penis.

When a woman struggles to be aroused, they say that this condition could be triggered by the fact that she cannot feel him or they would fault it on the man not being able to touch the right places to ignite her. But please, there are women who takes only twenty second after a man's touch to start vibrating like a generator. Just rolling your tongue in their navel and kissing them they will quickly experience an orgasm and tell you that they are tired. Men have never shamed 20 seconds women. It is only women that do that to men.

When a man does not have money, they never sympathize with him. They outright look at him across the face and call him broke. What about a woman caught up in the same situation? They call her strong and resilient. When a man refrains from spending his hard-earned cash on women, they call him stingy. But when a woman is tight-fisted, they call her independent. A man will develop pimples on his face and women will accuse him of lacking in hygiene. If you ever met a woman on the same condition and asked her what is happening to her face she will tell you that she applied a certain lotion that her face reacted to. This never happens to men according to them. Their faces are immune to reactions and foreign materials according to women.

Her Preferences Are Equal to None

Many men have had sex with more women than they have earned salaries. The 21st century does not seem to have preferences when it comes to men. They do not have a type as long as you are financially liberated. Your physical appearance does not matter to them as long as you have the money and ability to spoil them.

This is why I think so many men are single by choice. And this is why many men have dated these women without even committing to them. It doesn't matter if the man is irresponsible, they are going to date him and not just one but a harem of them. This is why as a man; you should not be intimidated by women's preferences.

They are just their preferences and nothing much to thwart your endeavors. Disregard those preferences and go ahead and declare your intentions. Women compromise their preferences all the time. Just listen to them swear that they cannot date a broke man. But who are these women's baby daddies if not the broke men they could not date?

You will hear them demonizing light men and swearing with their mothers that they could never date them. This is a manipulation tactic. They want to manipulate the guy into believing that he has a low sexual market value because they know that in the guy's list of the women he would date, they would come last. Just look at their children. Even the one that bears skin darker than soot has a light baby.

And who are the fathers?

The one with a dark-skinned baby cannot sleep at night scheming about how she will torment the innocent baby with imported concoctions so that they can lighten their face a little bit. She would do anything to have a light baby but in the list of that dude, she knows her name is missing. Women are blatant liars and manipulators. Loathing a light-skinned man is a manipulation to destroy his self-esteem because they know he doesn't like them.

If you are as short as a hammer, do not be intimidated. You know her preference is not a short guy but the average man's height is 5'9. Just know this is a shit test that you would pass in an eye blink. Disregard her preference. She is living in blatant hallucinations.

In your life as a man, you will one day avoid the prettiest woman in the room because you know you won't fit her proliferated preferences. You will snub her for the average-looking one. This is one way to know that you are suffering from inferiority complex. You will have looked down on yourself because you think that pretty women won't accept you because your brain subconsciously tells you that these types of women have many options. This kind of mentality is self-sabotage and a man should always try to shed that off.

Never be scared of asking the cutest woman out. Do not choose a 4/10 just because you are scared of rejection. Ask the cutest woman, let her say no. You will be surprised she might say yes. You are the one remunerating her in this relationship in most cases because you don't just bring your body like women do. Let her be extremely beautiful. Turn her around to ensure that she is worth your dime.

Real men ignore women who try to behave like they are above everyone else. Don't behave like you noticed such women as a man. You should behave like they are totally invisible. You as the man should decide and not them. Go to their table and drop your humor. The next minute you will be flirting. Immediately she starts getting hooked, ask for her contacts and leave. Let her never hear from you again. Believe it or not. She will look for you. Once you get her, show her that she is just like any other woman. Avoid treating her like a special case just because she is cute. You are the prize as the man and not her.

A Vagina Is Not an Altar

There are so many things we need to unlearn as people. A woman's vagina is not an altar. It carries no blessings nor curses. It does not mean that a vagina cannot destroy you, though and especially when you have sex with random women that you cannot tell whether they are healthy or not. If having sex with random women gave you diseases and ruined your life, that does not mean that it is a curse. These are ramifications of your own actions.

Hard work, fate, opportunity and luck will bring you luck as a man. And not whomever you are dating and not unless she comes with connections and financial assistance. A woman's vagina is nothing but a pound of flesh. There is nothing in it. If there was anything, a black spell or something, they would be rich themselves. Avoid genital herpes and AIDS by not having sex with random women. Everything else we think about a woman's vagina bringing forth bad luck is utter crap from our deluded minds.

Women are not givers of life. Their wombs are nothing but voids. They are not capable of bringing life by themselves. It takes a man to deposit a viable seed in it to create life. Both of them are special, man and woman and not just the woman. What makes anybody think that she is the giver of life? It is because women easily manipulate everyone else.

Every woman craves a man. She is not fulfilled until she gets a man of her dreams. Even the ones without a man are praying day and night to get a man that would wife them. None of them can snub princess treatment for a cold, lonely life. A woman cannot curse nor bless anybody. Her tears mean nothing. This should not be a gate pass to hurt another human being deliberately, though. Treat everyone the same way you want to be treated yourself.

“Fear creatures that bleed for a week and never dies.”

This phrase is coined by misinformed beta males who are miserable and weak-minded. Menstruation is not serious hemorrhage. If we collect all the blood, it will hardly fill two tea-spoons.

They will tell you that “behind every successful man there is a woman”. But they will never tell you that behind every successful man's fall, there is a woman too. A woman most times does not stand behind because she wants to help. Most of them wants to reap from the successful man's labor. They won't tell you that behind a successful man's fall there is a woman because it does not suit the feminist aspect of self-aggrandizement.

You cannot tell off head three men whose success can be credited to their wives but you can quickly show me a bunch of men whose fall was orchestrated by women. Even in the bible, you will meet sir Adam, Samson, David, name them. Always look both sides when crossing that highway because a woman does not lead to a man's success if she doesn't contribute anything financially. The women behind successful men are not the reason behind their success. Unless they assisted the men financially. Women do not stick where there seem to be no hope for the future. There is a very big difference between, “having sex with me when I am broke” and “building me”. Sticking around and being there is not the same thing.

Achievements Make Many Women Delusional

Her 'achievements' make her delusional. Probably, only a few women with an education would respect men and especially those ones that are below her in the corporate world. Their empowerment deludes them so much that they believe they are equally men or better than men. Most empowered women look down on men whom they think are below them. Their achievements activate their weaponry to fight against men.

Mostly, these kind of women have masculine nature. They would never be submissive for they believe they are better than you as the man. You have heard them asking what they would need from a man if they can provide for themselves. Most of them say that they do not need a man because they can be everything a man is. Achievements/empowerment have made them this delusional. And not unless the empowered woman is taught how to behave with the empowerment, it will always ruin marriage and incapacitate relationships.

This is why most of them are rude. They want to be assertive and authoritative over a man. And not unless the man is effeminate, there is no way he is going to be compatible with such women. Most masculine men will find this irritating and so they will avoid such types of women by all means. Only low-value men won't mind such attitude from women because they need them for survival and could be hobosexuals.

Not all educated women are deluded. Being educated and being intelligent are two totally diverging aspects. She could be educated and not intelligent. This is why her education will make her delusional. A few women understand that they will never be a man no matter who they are. They will always be a woman even though their duties and careers are masculine. Money, education and power does not make a woman valuable in her womanhood. It doesn't mean that these things proliferate her value in regard to womanhood. They deteriorate the value if mixed. An empowered woman should always learn how to separate her womanhood from her empowerment. This is why the world needs scholars of human conditions to write more books to replace the original ones used to brainwash genders. Empowerment and the notions about what a man and woman should be, can never co-exist.

Because women easily get deluded by their achievement, this is why phrases like, “Men get intimidated by successful women.” Exists.

These are phrases coined by the same women because of their delusions. Why the hell would a man in the 21st century be intimidated by a successful woman? He is bound to succeed too in his time. It is never a destination, but a journey. Women are empowered too and it should never surprise any man that they are succeeding.

I don't know which man would be intimidated by a woman who is making strides in life only to get attracted to a visionless woman who has no defined goals in life. If you tell women to mention any woman who is successful but single because men are intimidated by her success, they will start blubbering. Some women in this world buy big-for-nothing Lamborghinis only to look down on a man who don't have such cars at the moment. Not only men but other women too will definitely avoid such women because of their trashy attitudes.

Most women are successful than these kinds of women but they are happily married. No man is going to avoid a woman because she is successful. It is because of her shitty attitude he does. If a woman is not getting married because of her shitty attitude, her success should not be to blame for such predicaments. Her success has nothing to do with it because other unsuccessful women are unmarried too. Men are not scared bat shit by successful women. Everybody is disgusted by the egotistical bad attitude some people develop after little achievements. No man is intimidated by someone's Toyota Probox with carburetor problems.

Men above you do not approach you. Those on your level avoid you as plague. It is only the innocent, unsuccessful man who gets accused of being intimidated by the “innocent” successful woman—It's all delusional!

Women Hate Nice Men

A woman does not love tranquility alone. She cannot survive with only one emotion. She craves to experience all sides of herself. That's why the nice guys will always finish last in her list.

A woman is allergic to nice guys. It's like women love men who treat them badly and scold them sometimes. She wants to experience both sides of herself. She doesn't want to be happy throughout.

If you are too nice to her, she will try to create an imbalance so that she gets to experience the other side of herself. She lives to crave these feelings forever.

She wants you to create mayhem/disturbance. She wants to be hurt. After getting hurt, now she wants you to clear this mess by making her feel happy again. She wants you to make up with her and make things straight again. Just being one sided and too nice annoys her.

That's why they will always skip good guys for bad guys forever. Those men who are aware that a woman craves a man's 'toxicity' know how to alpha-widow a woman. Never be the nice guy to a woman. Never care too much. Do not sacrifice yourself for her. She will pay you back with hurt. Be both toxic and nice. Let her feel happiness and sadness when with you. These will have a big impact in her life. If you were the nice guy, you will never hear from your ex again.

If you were toxic and nice, and made her explore every side of her emotions, it doesn't matter where she goes. You will always live rent free in her head. She will always be your woman.

And she will always come back again and again because she misses the feelings she experienced when with you. She experienced special feelings and will always crave to be with you.

If you were the nice guy, forget it. You do not hold a special place in her heart. She forgot you the moment you walked out of the door. So guys will always go the extra mile of sacrificing themselves to make her happy. They are mistaken.

There is nothing you can do to win a woman's affection. She either likes you or doesn't. Trying to negotiate desire irritates her big time. If she is needy, she is likely to take advantage of you through deception.

She will make sure to extort you to the last drop of blood. She doesn't care how you earned the money you are using to impress her. She knows she doesn't like you and laughs at your ignorance behind your back. After doing all that for her, in the end she will say,

“Did I force you to do all that for me?”

And you will be disgruntled. Just know that all this time she will be right. There is no need to try and harm her because it is your fault for not understanding the game and women psychology.

Women Hate Own Language

If you are a man and wanted to woo a broke woman, there will be no problem with that. The world won't care. In fact, this is how it is supposed to be if you ask everyone. If you cannot sweat when working for that woman you love, why do you think you deserve to sweat on top of her? That would be insulting on her side.

What if a woman was broke and wanted to have a rich man in her life? She will have created a standard for herself that stretches to where she does not belong. She wants another person to maintain that standard and the world will have no problem with it. On the woman's side, this is called preference. But when these rich men have this same preference, it is called being misogynistic. The world dictates that women ought to love men conditionally and not the other way round.

What if men said,

“If we must get married, then they must possess three degrees, must have a high-end job, must be curvaceous with humongous bahookie and cute Cabello.

In short, they must be 10s. They must pay rent and feed us. They must be responsible.

On the other hand, we as men will stick back home, eat junk and become fat. We will look for a harem of other men in the neighborhood for rumor-mongering spree everyday. We will play video games, Netflix and chill. If our wives don't want us, we will say that they are insensitive and childish.

We will refuse to settle for less. We know our worth. We believe we are kings. We are all 10s. We deserve women who pay all our bills. Many ladies who are like this are out there. They do this all the time for their kings and do not come online to make noise and throw tantrums.

No matter how they sacrifice for us, they must not whine. We are giving these women sex and this should be enough. We are equally paying them back with that. They are supposed to spend lavishly on us so that they can maintain our handsomeness for themselves.

Paying bills is not a gender role. We are living our truth. We cannot settle for the bare minimum. Only ladies with small boobs and buttock energy should have a problem with that. Real women will go an extra mile to make their men happy. If they can't, they have no business being our women, as men. They are stingy and irresponsible. They do not deserve us.

We will drop from school and have no plans with our lives first. We will complain everyday and nag from morning to evening. We will hardly bathe too. We will have 70 ex-girlfriends and 80 baby mamas. We will have pen pals too for pleasure exchange program when our wives are at work. We will wait until our wives have invested in properties and then we will grind some steel wool to sprinkle in their food. Later, we might send snipers to dispatch them to Sir God along Moi Avenue so that it would look like collateral damage.”

The above language is okay with one gender and an abomination to the other one. People do not know that intelligence has been chasing them but they have been slippery, not until you address them in their own language.

After 30 It's Over for Her

In the normal patriarchal system, a woman brings nothing material to the relationship. She is supposed to bring her youthfulness, fertility, submissiveness and femininity. This is what makes a 30-plus woman not worthy of committing to. And not unless you as the man is a divorced single dad who is looking for someone to complete you. It is okay to have a blended family. Both of you can combine your children to create one complete family.

If you are a 35-year-old-man who has done the work and created your own value, it would be an insult to get married to a woman who ravaged her youth with other men. Just remember that this woman would not have dated you in her prime because you did not have any value. So, she skipped you for other men who only toyed with her. Whatever happened to her might be faulted not to somebody else but herself. The men that she scrambled for could see through her. They knew she was a bad woman and so they did recreational sex with her only to fling her back to the streets. They knew that they could not tame her wildness. This is why she was nothing but a little fling to them.

If you told women that their age mattered, they would scowl at you. They would deny it yet when asked their age, they always lie. No woman will ever add some years to her age when asked. They are quick to reduce it because they are aware that age matters when it comes to them. Most women with big age have always turned 22 each year. They are good at lying. Why would women never add 20 years to their real age if that would make them admirable?

A 20- year- old girl will never lie that they are 28. They would have devalued themselves already. Most young men lie to get laid by adding some years to their real age. This is why a 30-plus-year-old woman is not good for marriage in the real sense. They are aware but will never admit it. Why would a woman in their prime choose a woman who is not in their prime? i.e., the ones whose value has diminished?

A 30-plus-year-old woman has been with a bunch of men. Probably, a man choosing these kind of women is bringing chaos to his life. He should ask himself why all the men that bedded her never wedded her. And yes, she has high penile mileage and so the value is at zero. If you were not with her when the value was at the peak, why do you want to be with her now? What happened to all the men who had her when she had all the value? She is used-up and out of the shelves. And not unless you are not in the right state of mind as a man.

And yes, she is aware that her age comes with an expiry date. This is why she lies that she is 22 yet she is 33. She knows it and wants to deceive you. And it is not a secret. She will come with baggage and more chaos. If it has already been depleted, you as the man should let her go back to the man who exhausted it. Men are benevolent creatures. They do not ask women to bring much to the table. They are only asking her to bring her virginity and youthfulness. They do not ask women to bring money to the table. Their money is their own. And men are way more considerate. If she is not a virgin, they won't mind. They will only beg for one thing. They want these women whose virginity has been deflowered by another man to only keep their body count on the lower side. They will still accept these women and commit to them.

Why should a woman demand for a man's commitment yet she has seen more penises than she has earned her own money? Why should a woman ever think that an innocent man will be the one to commit to her when a myriad of men have been with her in the past, descended and walked away? Why does a woman think that an innocent man would be the right one to clear all the mess that these men created?

If a woman does not possess virginity and youthfulness, she should always bring economic empowerment and connections to the table and at least the innocent man will be compensated for everything the woman has done in the past with other men.

Is this too much for innocent men to ask? And one might wonder, what else do these women want to bring to the table apart from that?

Why do women demand to get what they are asking for but go ballistic when asked to bring the above simple things?

Men Do Not Sexualize Women

So many accusations have been projected to men for sexualizing women. It is always a battle of egos without forgetting that women have hefty egos than men. When women have choices, they are called options/preferences as usual. When men have the same, it is either misogyny or harassment. If men parade themselves leaning on a wall at the jobless corner, only a few women would prefer such men. Let's say, no woman would crave a man who is jobless, has no dream or future. So, if a woman passes around there and these men start catcalling her, this is termed as harassment by such women.

If a CEO of a certain company does the same thing, this would be termed as flirting. So many men have been accused of rape because the women withdrew consent after post-nut clarity. Or maybe, these men were not able to meet these women's demands or couldn't keep their promises. These women end up accusing these men of rape.

In the modern world, the dynamics have changed a great deal. Most women sexualize themselves by taking sexy photos which they post in their social media stories to lure men. There is always a target. Not everyone who reacts to those stories will be embraced with two hands. If you are not her target, it doesn't matter you showed interest or not. She will snob you or even block you. It is in women to make rules for the average men only to break them for the high-value men.

If you have a girlfriend who lives in Nyeri while you live in Nairobi, she won't afford fare to come visit you and you must send it to her. It is always different when it comes to other scenarios. She would never tell Ronaldo who is a billionaire to send her bus fare if he ever shows interest. The same woman would take herself with her own bus fare without even bearing in mind that she has a boyfriend. She makes rules for you and breaks them for men who are better than you. Women have bus fare. They spend on men all the time. If she does not spend on you, it is because you are not yet the man.

So, women sexualize themselves for the men they want. Others would do that to trap men for monetary gain or even bodily needs. An independent woman would sexualize herself to trap men for sex and company while a needy woman would sexualize herself to trap men for financial gain. Others feed off men's attention because it boosts their ego. A woman will always feel good about herself when men admire her. This is why most modern women wear scanty dresses. It does not necessarily mean that they are wearing that to attract sexual partners. It is the attention they are craving for. A sadist kills a defenseless animal not for his gain but to experience the pleasure of doing that. So we can say that women wear skimpy clothing deliberately to make them feel good about themselves. It is not about the other person who is ogling at her cleavage. She has no time quenching the desires of the other person—in this scenario, she wants to have her cake mouth-watering, for admiration but she is not ready to eat it. They might want to eat it and still retain it. Saliva gushing out of the eater's mouth thrills her.

If you are not her preference and you stare at her behind in real life, she will get offended. If she posts a photo of herself showing off her bahookie and garners a thousand likes, she will be thrilled. A woman is good at sexualizing herself. If you ask your woman to give everything material you gifted her in the relationship, she will say,

“What about the sex you got from me?”

Women place value on their bodies. They are quick to objectify themselves like this. If you try to tell her that you would place your mom above her, she will tell you to go and get sex from her. Because her value revolves around her sexual organs. It is not the men who made her to hold such beliefs but is inherently inborn.

They believe that the only way they can provide value in a relationship is through their sexual organs and that's why they keep on sexualizing themselves and blaming men. After relationship failing they would say,

“After giving you my body? Your aim was to only use and dump me.”

When they collect money after sex to maintain their bodies, it makes them look like sexual objects. And not all women are like this. A few others respect themselves and that's why others are married and have raised good families. Most of the other types cannot jubilate in marriage and they have been good for casual sex. Most men finish their business and fling them back to the street where they belong. Men can only do themselves some favor by piping and swiping them. For committing to them will bring chaos to their lives.

Men Are Scams

This term has been coined by unruly women who could not keep men. They were un-submissive because equality lied to them that whatever men can do they can do the same even better. They coined this term after being with a lot of men. So, this could be another way of knowing women with a high body count. He has tried so many men, almost all of them. This is why she thinks that men are scam. She has failed to look inwards to fix her own flaws and so she faults men for her bad taste in them.

Men only value beauty, youthfulness and innocence. If you look around, you will find this term has been coined by women who do not possess any of these. It is always said by not-so-smart women who brings nothing to the table. If she does not possess youthfulness, purity and beauty, then she has nothing to bring to the table. They are not in shape and we have seen them undress on Facebook, TikTok and Instagram. The masses have seen their nudes for free. If you listen to them speak, they have high standards and they would dictate that an innocent man should marry them and pay dowry to their parents.

In the days of our forefathers, they married virgins. They were eager to be the first man in a woman's life. Not in the world of today. Men are struggling hard and trying to be the last men in such women's lives. They are struggling so hard to make money so that they can pay dowry to women whose youthfulness and purity have been dished out to other men. Literally, men are paying to have something others had free of charge.

If you look clearly, smart, rich men fear marriage because it comes with divorce. You would never know women's intentions. They have been with so many men but never stuck there. They are now old and this might mean that they love money and their love might not be genuine. Women go broke after divorce because they have been harnessing the men's property and provisions. This is why the law protects them by having the properties of the husband split by half. And many women would take advantage of this secular. It could be used as a business venture by them.

You wonder why 90% of divorce in the world is initiated by women. Rich men fear divorce. When a rich woman wants to get married, she demands for a prenup. Because her properties are her own but the man's belong to both of them.

So, women who are older and are always saying that men are scam are wearing red, gigantic red flags on their heads. They will never pick a man who has nothing but will quickly stop shouting that men are scams when a wealthy man comes along. Men are scams is a term used to describe those ones who have disappointed them over the years. Men are not the scams—they are!

Why Cute Women End Up Single

The more beautiful a woman is, the more the attitude and overestimation. This overestimation will make her delusional because in the back of her mind, she doesn't understand why she is forced to settle yet a thousand other men out there are fighting tooth and nail to win her heart.

Her beauty will always be used as a weapon to hurt you as the man. In the real sense, this should be understandable because her beauty is a natural tool bestowed by nature to help her navigate life.

The more the beauty, the more she gets confused and the harder it will be for her to quickly make decisions. Not all women are like this because intelligence will always be above everything. But this should never make a man lie to himself because the cuter she is, the more her man is likely to deal with chaos and more chaos.

If you do not meet her expectations, another man will always be ready to do that. She chose you because you are better than all the other men who wooed her. Why then, would she continue being with you when there are men out there who are better than you? This is why she will always demand for an exceptional performance. These men will always give her their contacts so that she can call them when she is done with you and they are not even ashamed of themselves because they know she will eventually do.

They always hope to be the type of man who could outdo you in her eyes. Rich men who are utter simps are always ready to explore another man's woman anytime. She has temptations because she is a human being. This is why her hypergamy nature will always be activated. If her desire is having a wealthy man, why would she continue sticking with a poor one when the opportunity have already shown itself?

If her desire is being with a handsome man, she won't hesitate after meeting the man of her dreams. She will automatically leave if you are her current man. A woman will never suppress her nature to be in a man's world. This is subconscious. Nature has designed them with such morphology so that they will be able to root for their offspring. If this functionality is discarded. It is the offspring that will suffer maiming future generations.

So, this is how it plays out. She starts by looking at herself. She is pulchritudinous and knows her worth. She definitely cannot give in to some guys who are not her preference. Most successful men, or let's say, the men in her spec right now were once the type of men that she does not want now and they can see through her bullshit. A lot of them break her heart for it is the man who decides who to commit to. Men are the gatekeepers of marriage while women are the gatekeepers of sex. Many men are aware that these types of women would never date them if they did not possess certain qualities.

These qualities are worked for and so for example, they know when a woman does not really love them for who they are. So, these men toy with such women's feelings and this turns them into sadists. When a woman is heartbroken, the remedy is another man, unlike men who look for hobbies or something to improve their lives because they understand why women reject them. A heartbroken woman becomes promiscuous. She knows that the men he would want to settle for can see through her bullshit. So she keeps hopping and being run over by such men since she is empty inside.

Such women now start changing men like bra. And don't forget that not all men can have her but only the top-tier men. The other low-value men are not her type. Only the fine, wealthy guys can jubilate in winning her heart. These others can only fantasize being with her. Eventually, she will get a baby with these men who cannot commit. A baby will appear and the father will disappear. From here she will become a misandrist. She hates men and will always scream that men are dogs. She after that becomes an alcoholic and is always fighting for the attention of men in the clubs with the upcoming pulchritudinous damsels. She is now slowly losing it and exiting the stage. In her 20s and early 30s, she draws a tattoo. This is always the last nail in the coffin.

Then, one day she crosses paths with a 35-year-old hardworking man who has been through thick and thin to achieve some success. He is on his prime but the woman is on her decline. The man is like a gold mine to the woman but with his ignorance, he could not be able to tell what is about to happen. Now nobody can convince him that she is not the one. She now acts so loving and the man is blinded to the core. The man quickly sends a harem of other men from his village to fetch his wife. The old men are outright ignorant and so they do not have a hint about the red flags.

Just in the lapse of eight years, the couple will now be having two children. Another one on the top of the one she came with. Or they could be more. One day the man comes to realize that the deadbeat comes back and she lowers her guards for him. All this while the man could see the red flags in front of his eyes but he outright ignored them. Later, he realizes that he is not the father of the other children even. He is now 40, old, spent, miserable and with popping knees.

What the man should have done is loitering in the market to fish a young, pulchritudinous damsel without such an ugly past and utter deception.

Friendzone Is an Exploitation Zone

Every time you choose a woman as a man, you should directly tell her your intentions rather than beating around the bush. Many times, women know right in their heart that they would never consider you to be their spouse. They would never give you a chance and not unless a miracle happened. Most of them are aware that you are vulnerable when it comes to them and you would do anything to have them consider you. They use this situation to their advantage. They will keep you in the friend zone for other purposes rather than intimacy. They already have their main man whom they are engaged intimately but they have you and a couple of other guys your type for exploitation. Most financially challenged women use the guys on their friend zone for livelihood. They are purposely there as cash cows.

If she turns you down as the man after asking, just know you are below her league or let's say, she has other better men than you. If she looks at herself and realizes that no man can resist her, she is going to set the bar too high. It is going to cost you a lot as an average guy to have her give in to your advances. It is not worth it. A woman always gauges herself by considering the harem of men that keep on pestering her for a relationship—the bigger the number of suitors, the more the cost of wooing her.

If she turned you down two years ago but you have discovered that she is trying to send you signals, just know that she is laying a trap. It's either:

- Your value has soared.
- Her value has diminished.

If it is her value that has gone down, this would be a hell of a relationship. That would only mean that you are not worth a good woman looking at your value and this should be a wakeup call and you should try and fix yourself. The males that she rejected you for have either explored her and discovered that she is not worth it. They did not want to commit to her because they realized that she is not worth it. Maybe they could have realized that her character was wanting. So, she is now luring you to commit to something other men got free of charge—why should you be the one to pay for it?

The other guys piped and swiped her to the garbage pit for you to catch. A man should always respect himself. He should not fall for such. There are better other women who are fresher than she is. Let her be. If she ever tries to tell you what a real man is, or what a real man is supposed to do to his woman, just take caution. You are about to be manipulated—she is going to use you.

When asking a woman to date you, do not stammer. Do not try to send signals. Look her in the eyes and outright ask her. Do not try to use money to lure her. Money should never be in the picture because you cannot use that to negotiate desire. We can only use money as a reward and not as a medium to make a woman like us or be with us.

If you are chatting her on your social media because she gave you her contact, do not disrespect her. Be a gentleman—don't be crude. But always understand that she is not your school mistress. Do not try to be professional when addressing her. Cross the line other men are scared of crossing. Tell her that you will make her gasp for breath on her own papyrus bed. Every time you chat her, be sure to cut off the communication if you do not get the same reciprocity. And lastly, as a man, do not pay any woman after sex for the pleasure is mutual. Let other men pay her.

Women Are Not Capable of Loving Men

Women are not capable of loving men. Their love is a code for something else. Even the good book advice men to love their wives. Women can only respect and not love men. Their love is conditional. It is only men who are capable of loving women unconditionally. She will be broke and a man will accept her just the way she is. She will be a single mother and a man will love her that way.

Women cannot even do a quarter of the things men do for love. Even the most powerful woman like a president expects her man to man up and take care of her. She doesn't consider that she has all the soldiers at her disposal and would not even care that she has control over the central bank. She will always act fragile when you are with her. She wants the man's provision and protection to feel like a woman.

A woman loves a man for a reason. Some are lonely and just want a man to accord them some company. They will ghost that man when the main one is around. Others wants the man to help them with something. A woman's love to a man will always be in form of submission and respect. If she doesn't submit to you as the man and is rude, that is a futility relationship you are building and you should let it crumble as quickly as possible.

A man can die for a woman but a woman cannot do the same. Only a few women in the world are ready to die for a man. The relationship ends where she is forced to sacrifice herself for the man. It is always the man's duty to burn himself for the woman or else he is not going to experience even the slightest whiff of love in the world. If a woman is poor, she will get herself a man in an eye blink. If a man is poor, he deserves nothing in this world. That's the way of life.

A man could be the one paying rent year in year out. This is what is expected of him. She cannot pay rent twice as the man lives with her in the same house. She will urgently need another man or let's say, probably, she will consider becoming the man of her dreams and you as the man will be discarded into the dustbin. Just understand, a man will love a woman with her children whom he did not sire but a woman will NEVER.

A woman can never love a man enough, leave alone dying for him. Even the most innocent woman will leave you some day. And women do not care how much you do for them. Whether more than enough or little, your sacrifices mean nothing to her. Don't forget that women know how to win over any man they want just at any time they want. It's you that she wants to stick with. If she ever wanted to fuck off from your world, just let her go. Stop counting reasons as to why you think she should stick with you. Let her make her own independent decisions. Do not negotiate with her no matter what. Same as men, no woman in the world is not replaceable—they are all expendable. Winning over any woman is not heroism—every man should win over himself.

Genuine Desires Have No Rules

So many people lie in an attempt to cover their ulterior motives or simply because they are not enlightened. As opposed to many people's sentiments regarding what they say is morally upright and what is not, sex should always come first in a relationship or at least, this should be the first green flag. If she ever gives a list of demands before she agrees meeting or becoming intimate with you just run for the sake of your peace because genuine desire have no rules.

In the past, I did not know this for I had not laid my hands on a book talking about it, so, I used to buy girls stuff so that they could fall in love with me. They kept taking from me yet they refused to become intimate with me in the long run. I could see the promised land but entering it was an uphill task. They extorted me mercilessly. Others did not ask for anything from me. In fact, they were the ones asking me if I had Uber money. We made love on their own beds and they were so happy.

They did not care if I was broke. They cooked me omelets too.

As discussed earlier, you should never waste your time wooing a girl who hesitated the first time you asked her. THEY DON'T LIKE YOU, get over your fantasies—you cannot negotiate desire. A healthy relationship is based on mutual desires. Don't ever lie to yourself. A girl who genuinely desires you will never ask you to give them time. If she ever did that, just know that you are not her best option.

A woman who genuinely desires you does not care if you think she is cheap. They are not going to mind about what anybody says. If she ever told you to wait for the second and third date for her to become intimate with you, just know she is only looking for a chance to extort you for a free treat. And all this is not based on genuine desire but her maliciousness.

Just observe to see whether she is making any demands before becoming intimate with you. She will definitely take advantage of you in the long run. It is probably because you were forcing things and she would never consider a relationship with you, to begin with. This correlates with post-nut clarity in men. Sex has to come first. If a man ejaculates in a woman and still loves her the same way after that, she is the one!

People can date for a decade and when the man ejaculates in her, he will come back to his senses only to realize that she is not even worth all that struggle. Post-nut clarity is ruthless and some are single mothers because of this. This is why I think, genuine relationships always start with having sex—as crude as it sounds, the truth doesn't care about our feelings.

Women Believe That Men Are Cheap

If you look like you can be famous or successful, women will scramble for you in droves. They are attracted to famous men. For example, in the world of social media, a lot of women will crawl to send such man a private message. Just understand they will never send private messages to a man who doesn't seem to have a future. They will first contact the man and spoil him with attention at first.

After some time, they will withdraw the attention—this is a tactic they use most of the time to manipulate men because they are convinced they can win over any man they want. This is a part of their delusion. A real man should be able to see through this manipulation. Some men can be manipulated by just any woman because they lack preferences. Just a few men in the world can evade such traps.

When she stops messaging, she wants you now to start chasing her. Remember she is the one who started, and then you might wonder why she now wants you to chase her instead of being consistent with what she started. Unless she is in the spec of a woman you would want to date do not chase her back. Ghost her and even block her—respect yourself.

Most women who do this will never be your type. You will find that most women who approach you first will never be your preference. She knows that in the list of girls you would date, she doesn't appear yet she will go ahead to approach you first. Remember that it is Moses who goes to the mountain in normal circumstances. The mountain could never go to him. Most women who do this are only trying to prove a point. She might never be interested even. She knows men chase a girl they like or when they desperately want sex. Just manipulating you to fall for her is enough ego boost and she is thrilled by that.

She is only doing this because she wants you to boost her self-esteem. She is dying to get some validation from you. She is subconsciously aware that she is below your league. Trust me she would be genuinely nervous if you ever fell for her tricks. She might ghost you after this. She is only trying to test waters. Only trying to see if she could be in the spec of girls you would consider dating. Let her always message you first. If she is your spec and not consistent, let the communication succumb to a natural death.

In Education, Genders Are Equalized

In the 21st century, the dynamics have greatly changed. Unlike in the patriarchal setup, the modern system has added something else to the list of whatever women are expected to bring to the table, even though men will always demand for it in hushed tones. It doesn't seem to be a mandatory stipulation but we cannot just ignore it. Equality has its advantages and disadvantages which we cannot overlook.

Anybody who is conversant with social media and the present times dynamics have encountered these emerging conflicts amongst the genders. If you are a man, probably you have sent a message to a random woman on social media with an intention of wooing her and she had the audacity to tell you in the face that you should date women of your class. Most women who always use these words on men are always the broke ones. This will trigger a lot of questions of whether themselves are always dating people of their class. And if the gauge is how much money each party is worth, are they of the same class financially as those men they are anticipating to date?

And if the worth of these women is not gauged with the amount of money they possess, then, what else are they using to gauge their worth? Is it something they worked hard for? People use financial strength to gauge men's worth. But it is funny some people think that they are not equal to another's class yet they are not considering anything material when comparing themselves and declaring their worth. What do they consider if they are not offering the other person something whose monetary value can be measured?

What makes them think that they are above another's class when they are literally broke themselves? They preach water when drinking wine. They do not have money. If you ask them what the level of their education is, and how much they have in their bank accounts to declare themselves of high class, they will go ballistic.

They invest on beauty creams and butt enlargement surgeries only for them to think that their class has been proliferated. They broke-shame men yet they have nothing themselves—a story of the kettle calling the pot black. Education and equality have changed these dynamics. If you have no education and you are broke, you have no class too, regardless of gender. When women tell men of their age that they are not of the same class, what they mean is, the young men they are shaming do not have the amount of money possessed by the rich, old folks they love dating.

In this era, boys and girls go to school together, chase dreams together and earn together. So, girls will have to start minding their finances too. If they don't have any, that makes them members of a lower social class too and so they should anticipate getting lovers of their type. In the era of equality, everyone should earn their own money irrespective of gender. Men should date broke women but should always be cautious about dating poor women for the following reasons.

- A poor woman has high expectations. She cannot take care of herself or even afford the things she wants you to afford for her. She is unrealistic and insensitive, always entitled to your hard-earned cash.
- She wants to get things from you which she cannot afford herself with all the money she has. She does not want to think about how you earn your money or whether you can afford those things or not. She outright cannot afford them herself but keep you on toes until you afford them for her. It is like taking a stroll with a toddler in the mall when you are broke. You might develop high blood pressure.

- A poor woman will misuse your money. She has no money mindset and that's why she is poor. This is why some people live from paycheck to paycheck. They cannot survive without a job because they lack money creation mindset. She is poor because of this reason. She believes that you must cook expensive things yet she cannot afford them until you get them for her.

Because of this mindset, someone must pay for this standard for they cannot afford it themselves. This is why they cheat more. Avoid them at all costs. You can easily pinpoint them among a multitude because of the questions they will ask you, e.g.,

“Will you be able to afford me/take care of me?”

They always objectify themselves and believe that someone must do things for them because they cannot do it for themselves. They are a burden and you must pay for this with your entire generation.

There Are No Rich Men in The World

“Girls, don't gamble your life with a poor man.”

You will hear this often as a woman. But do they take their time to tell you who a rich man is and how he looks like? I will tell you for sure, there is no one like a ‘rich’ man. What many women succumb to is nothing but pure delusions through their own clogged perceptions. There is more to it than meets the eye. A rich man could be a mindset.

The truth of the matter is; all men are born equal. They are all born naked, covered in a thin sheeting of Vernix Caseosa. A man is born valueless. What people call “rich” is nothing but status. A status is static. It is never constant. If you are going to spend your whole life looking for a “rich” man, you are likely going to be disappointed.

So, a man creates value as he strolls through life. The status “rich” is not something that happens instantly. It is something that the man spends his time creating as he passes through life. There are a few rich men compared to poor men. That's the truth. And most times, the status keeps fluctuating from one state to another. In your childhood, you knew some rich men who are not anymore. They owned shops and cars. The new model cars they were being respected for at some point turned into poultry houses.

A few people understand this concept. Success is not some kind of destiny, but it is a journey. Its rent is due everyday.

This always gives us a hint about the nature of things. If you are going to look for a rich man, and not unless you sign a death warrant to keep hopping from one man to another, there is nothing like “rich men”. Being rich is like a cattle dip where cows jump one at a time. The cow does not spend all its life in the cattle dip. It comes out through the other side. Being “rich” is always a journey, as we have seen earlier on.

For girls and women to be happy, they should embrace equality as a women empowerment tool. They should always place their lives in their own hands so that when the men come along, they will be bonuses, and not ladders. The rich men girls keep on looking for are imaginary for success is not what we perceive and see with our naked eyes. It is much deeper than that. Just because you saw him driving a big car or emerging from an affluent home does not mean he is rich. Don't ever think that you will ever have a rich future together. You will be slapped by the biggest shock of your life. Sometimes people are rich while other times they are broke. This is what status looks like.

But there are a few rich men, maybe. They stole big money and grabbed huge tracks of land while others dealt drugs. The powerful political thieves and drug barons—they are just but a few. What defines “rich” are mere numbers which ends to infinity. It is like currency, it comes and goes. If your happiness depends on numbers, you will never be happy—you will die chasing futility.

The older a woman grows, the more her chances of getting a rich man dwindles. A woman has around ten years after puberty to get herself a rich man. A woman should always chase a course, and not a rich man. Let her look for a MAN. She might never get a rich man and when she does, she will discover that it is not what she expects.

Submissiveness Should Be Rewarded

Most women have mastered the art of deception. They are aware that modern man does not want to reward submissiveness but they are quick to reward a bad woman just because she is beautiful and has voluptuous behinds. This has heartbroken the good woman who does not see the importance of being a good woman for the man won't hesitate to reward the bad girl. Wives have seen the man they have been submissive to escape home every time he gets some money to go spend it with damaged women in the streets. It is what it is. Due to this, in the coming one decade, more women will choose the streets over being submissive to any man.

Men should choose to invest their money not on women but on projects that will earn them a plough back. So many men go to work everyday and when they get their salary, they go ahead to spend it on someone who got their own salary as them. That person schooled with them, goes to work with them and earns their own money. The aftermath is them being heartbroken and broke in the long run when the woman invests on herself.

If both of you earn 100k each while you use yours to pay bills and spoil her when she invests hers, be sure to face difficulties in your relationship in the future. She is likely to become rebellious because some women when empowered become unruly. After her leaving, you will be left lamenting.

“After all I did for you?”

She doesn't care about all the things you did for her. A woman is not wired to recognize men's sacrifices. Even today men are paying heavily for being with her while another man is having her without paying a dime. If you have to be amongst the two men, please, choose to become the latter.

Do not be that man who is wasting all his youth slaving for a woman who will not stick with him to the end. It doesn't mean that a man ought not spend on or treat his woman nicely. But both of you should take care of each other. A man should not be barricaded from investing on himself just because he is dating. At this time, he is also supposed to be testing her loyalty and submissiveness. No matter how we deny it, it seems like some women can never be queens. No matter how much we try. They can only be little flings. As a man, you are not a rehabilitation center. Reward good women and do away with the rest. Do not reward a woman just because she is beautiful and carries big buttocks—let her earn it!

A man should afford everything he needs for himself before being benevolent. A man should only spend a small percentage of his money on a woman but not everything he has. When men prioritize women, we keep having phrases like,

“After eating Githeri and water to take care of you this is how you pay me at last?”

Other men spend 0.02% of their money and go ahead to ghost them yet there is another man who is spending all he got. A woman doesn't care about your means of earning as a taker, she doesn't have a limit either. Her job is taking. She will take all of it and squander without flinching and when the time comes, she will leave you without an iota of guilt. She won't hesitate to broke shame you in the end. You are not special than all the men who were used and dumped like used teepee. Huge tracks of lands and trailers have vanished in the little void between her legs. If a man is guided by his erection, he is likely to perish in the end.

Her Body Count Is Always Two at Most

As a wise man, never try to enquire about her body count because it always stagnates at two. Women of nowadays are sexually liberated. Their empowerment has deluded them to a point of believing that they have options and so they do not flinch when feeding their craving and preferences. So, they will always sample men of their choice unlike the traditional woman who valued faithfulness and purity. To know her body count, just check her behavior. You will know by looking to see how she behaves/handles herself when she is around men. A woman with a high body count is never shy when around men. Unlike a woman whose experience with men is minimal, this one will easily connect, hug them or even kiss them.

A woman with a high body count behaves like she is with her boyfriend when she is around men. Such women will develop a problem bonding with one man because her body will always crave all the energies that she has experienced from the different men she's been with. She will easily compare you as her boyfriend and will always demand that you treat her like one of her ex. It will be hard to impress her even for an inch. It's like having accessed a lot of food varieties in the past. One day as you are sitting in your house, you are likely to start missing Mananasi. You would rush out of the house to fetch one. Same principle applies to high body count women. One day she will miss a Njoroge from Kinangop who has a big cassava than yours. She will definitely go for it—the higher the body count, the harder to please.

Many women will deny this. They will try to argue that their body count doesn't matter. Would she feel comfortable as a woman when she walks into a room with her body count engraved on her forehead?

Do they really think their body count as women matter? Without being insensitive, we can agree that women's body count matter more than that of men does. A driver is deemed experienced for driving many car models but the car is deemed used for being driven for a long time by different drivers.

Would any woman hold herself in high regard if she knew deep down that she is easily accessible like a mosque? Definitely, she won't and not unless she wants to lie to the world. As for men, it is the other way round. The more women the man can bag, the more masculine he is. The more a woman gets penetrated by different men, the more her value diminishes. High body count women are not likely to survive in marriage. They carry all sorts of trauma from every man who passed over them in the past. They will come with mayhem and more chaos.

Single and Independent Woman Is Non-Existent

Most women who use “single and independent” phrase to describe themselves are the ones entertaining multiple men to quench their sexual preferences and tastes. These women are products of empowerment for an empowered woman will always crave sexual liberation. They harbor all types of men under the umbrella of “single and independent”.

These women hate accountability with all their hearts. They want to be pierced by any man of their preference without being accountable. A good number of these women are cashing out their beauty in a penis carousel with Mike and James and so you wonder where the term “independence” is coming from. They thrive in penis fantasy. They are low-key prostitutes.

The opposite of these women is the virtuous woman. This type of woman is a queen. She is married to one man. She could not trade off her dignity for a few coins.

They are able to subscribe to a simple moral code without being fussy.

The other type of “single and independent” is the one nobody wants. These one are few like the white rhino. Most of these are single mothers who have no value to offer. Others could be totally masculine in their physicality. A few men are attracted to women who lack a feminine touch. No man is going to be attracted to another person of his kind unless he has psychological and physiological disorders.

For instance, alpha men will never tolerate un-submissive women and so they leave them alone. These women after being flung to the streets, they never pick a particular man to be their own. They entertain multiple men who are mainly beta males. These women take advantage of these beta males to earn a livelihood. These women make rules for these betas. They could not settle for one man in their prime and the beta males are not able to settle for the women of their desire because they are weak men.

This beta male sacrifices himself in order to access this woman by taking another man's responsibility because he is desperate. Because of his low-value, he has to make this sacrifice. Most women who use these beta males would not have accepted them in their prime. Others become bitter feminists because no one wants them totally.

As usual, every woman craves a man and won't be fulfilled until when she gets one. They keep on lowering the bar once they advance in age.

The Brainwashing/Indoctrination

Boys and girls are indoctrinated to prepare them for the patriarchy. Boys are brainwashed to believe that having a penis makes them superior than the girls. They are taught how to dominate over them. Girls are indoctrinated to believe that they are weaker than boys. They are taught how to submit to them because they are way below them. The boys are taught how to suppress their feelings. From then onwards, they spend the rest of their lives living in denial.

They are not supposed to express their emotions because they will be deemed as weak as the girls. So, what happens when these feelings build up at the core of their beings? Of course, it is going to explode as a form of helplessness and anger. Because first, they have been taught how to never be true to themselves and honor their feelings. It's like being dishonest to oneself. It is like trying to lie to yourself yet you are not aware of what you are supposed to lie to yourself about and thus you end up being disappointed in the long run. From suppressed feelings, confusion, anger, frustration and inability to express yourself, violence crops up at this juncture. This is why the patriarchal man is always violent as the only means at his disposal to express his frustration because they have been forced to wear a mask, to become someone they are not by lying to themselves. They are scared it will affect their self-esteem if they express their true emotions.

Most men after successfully being able to suppress their emotions, they have no other means but to turn to violence when the other person does not understand them. Somehow, they are indoctrinated to believe that when they cripple and suppress their emotions, it automatically turns to logic, which of course, is a misconception. The inability to communicate and express your feelings properly does not automatically morph to logic. Emotion is not the opposite of logic. You do not automatically morph into a logical being just because you have not cried since you were ten.

To correct this, men must be allowed to be in touch with their feelings because without it, they won't be able to love another human being without sabotage. And to make the matters worse, this indoctrination is not imposed on boys by their fathers. It is the mothers who are doing this. So, realistically, when we talk of men being violent towards women, it does not crop up from the men themselves but from the brainwash and indoctrination imposed on them by their mothers.

Violence in men is not biological but is a result of an imposition to enhance and propel an expectation in that culture where the man is forced to be dominant. Even single mothers are taking this job and playing a big role in indoctrinating their sons to the patriarchal culture. When a mother tells her son to be “a man” or to “man up” is a good example of the imposition of patriarchal will to little boys.

Misandrists and women who are disgusted by men and have rage towards them will always enforce an emotional connection that has been denied to them by adult men. This means that she will subconsciously subject this to her son by shaming him. She is imposing a patriarchal will that will automatically create a notion, in his son that propagating violence towards women is allowed.

Let Her Abide by Your Rules as The Man

If she leaves, never take her back. She won't respect you from here onwards because you could not replace her. You now become a weak man in her eyes. The more a man clings to a woman, the more his value diminishes in her eyes. A woman stays where she can easily be replaced. This is why pedestaling her reduces your gangster points in her eyes.

Women will never solve men's problems but will always proliferate them. This is why God himself do not even have a wife, maybe. Because a woman will always be a disruption and a burden in a man's life. In the patriarchal setup, it is the man who works and toils in the fields while the woman sits back at home. This is why men are advised to focus more on themselves rather than focus on women.

Men are supposed to chase a purpose for if a man is dedicated to his purpose, it makes the relationship easier. That explains the dynamic whereby successful men will always have a harem of women and options. If a man chases his purpose, he is likely to easily find love. And because he is the leader, that's why he is not allowed to subscribe to the teachings of women for this makes him effeminate. When men become feminine, they will now start being repellent to the women and they will struggle or have bad relationships.

A man should never conform to a woman's teaching, or fall into her frame. Women will always dent men's wallets, ruin their lives and walk out on them without an iota of guilt. This is why men should let women abide by their rules. If women are not willing to fall into the frames of their men, the men should be smart enough to let them go.

It is women who need men the most in the patriarchal setup. This is why when a man becomes rich, he is likely to improve the living conditions of his woman and girlfriends. If a woman becomes the same, 99% she is likely to leave the man because she feels she does not need him anymore.

Respect Over Love

If a woman leaves you, she expects you to get hurt. If you show her no sign of begging, she will be disappointed big time. This is why women crawl back to their exes when they learn that they moved on and they are now happy with someone else. They will always crawl back to disrupt their exes' happiness with their newfound mates. When women leave, they want the man to be horrible. Every time she leaves and you as the man show no sign of guilt, she will crawl back to make you feel bad for not loving her enough.

A man's begging when a woman leaves him boosts her ego. If she tells you that it's over today, just know that you got left a long time ago. They have to detach themselves emotionally before leaving physically. A man should never beg a woman to stay. He should let her leave if she wants to. When she finally leaves, a man should never lie awake in the middle of the night wondering what he did wrong. And wallowing over her memories. He should delete her from his mind and get her a replacement, or he can simply focus on his purpose rather than worry for the woman who just left. A man who focuses on his purpose is likely to get a better woman than the previous ones once he decides to date again.

For example, a woman will always ask to be given time if asked for a relationship. One reason they do this is because they want to make sure that they are making the right decision. And they want to disengage from that man if the one who just asked is worth being the replacement. If she disengages from the other man for this other one, it is because this one is better than the other one in all aspects. What if the current one notices the red flag and outright walks out on her? She will spend the rest of her life trying to crawl back to this man but if he stayed and ignored the red flags, she would have treated him as a weak man for tolerating her bullshit. From here onwards, she will live to respect this man and he will have saved himself from a nonsensical relationship. Respect will always surpass love whether in a relationship or not.

Her Beauty Is a Tool to Navigate Life

Do not be excited over her beauty. Do not drool over it either. The more you drool over it, the more she proliferates her own worth over your life and the more you will strain to meet her self-proclaimed standard. There isn't such kind of unique beauty in the world because there are a bunch of other people with the same out there.

Do not pedestrianize anybody for beauty she did not strive to earn. They did not work hard to earn it but they found themselves beautiful. Why would you turn yourself into a slave by worshipping it?

What purpose does the beauty of a woman serve to anybody? This beauty is to their own advantage because they will have more options in the dating pool and that will be a direct ticket to outrun you. the beholder will use the beauty to deceive you and in the long run, they will take advantage of you.

Even without being egotistical as a man, a woman's beauty should never deceive you. Even if you are excited, you should never show it outright. The woman was born with that beauty and that should never make you lose control. A woman's value is her beauty. she literally uses her beauty as a tool to navigate life. So, to her, the beauty is her gate pass to good life. she does not need to work hard like a man but she anticipates to attract a good man who will always take care of her in life. It is this beauty that will assist her in doing this.

A woman without education will live the best life. She does not need to have a degree or a six figure salary to live in State House or ride in a Bugatti. Women with the IQ of a tadpole have been to expensive destinations that men with decent jobs and salary could only dream of. They simply cannot afford them and no woman will be willing to bill them.

A woman will more easily maneuver her way around life than a man can. A woman's money and big credentials are useless when it comes to the dating pool. The value of a woman is not gauged by that. She is totally fine without it. She will go far in places men can only dream with their jobs and hefty credentials. Because her beauty is the asset and tool that she uses to navigate life.

The more beautiful she is, the higher the sexual market value and the more your relationship with her will be disadvantaged if you are a man of low value. A woman subconsciously knows her value by simply looking at herself. it is OK to appreciate beautiful women other than being so obsessed that you lose yourself in the conundrum. Bowing down to a woman's beauty will only make one weak and stupid. Appreciating some girl's curvy figure is OK but begging her and using your hard earned cash for your love to be appreciated by her is outright suicidal.

They Don't Want Their Brother to Be a Real Man

If you ever get a chance to sit beside a woman, try asking her what she thinks a real woman is and pick a bag of popcorns as she goes ahead to print a picture of a lady who is dominant, assertive, authoritative and speaks for herself. That one who does not give in to controlling.

After that ask her what she thinks a real man is. She will go ahead to say that a real man is the one who treats women right, buys them gifts, accepts single mothers with their illegitimate children, exercises cunnilingus on women and is easily manipulated. Her definition of real man Is the one who can forget himself and put her first. Those ones who can forsake their family for the sake of another woman. someone who is easily manipulated and is not scared of losing himself for the sake of another person.

Mothers who have daughters with children always pray for them every night so that they could get husbands.

She will kneel down to pray for her daughter but she will never do the same for her son. She would never wish her son such a bad luck in his life. She wants another woman's son to take the burden of accepting her daughter with her imperfections but would never want her son to encounter such. Sisters are the worst in protecting their brothers from being exploited by women who bring nothing else but other men's children for them to cater and chaos. they feel that they are entitled to getting a good man when they are not good themselves but their brother should never get to handle a woman like them.

The truth of the matter is, a man who marries a single mother has been rejected by fresh women. Fresh women have bars raised up to the sky. It is not until they have been pierced and lost some value that the standards bend low to the ground. The man has wandered the world and failed to get himself a damsel. Because of societal stigma, such men inject themselves into another man's family.

There is nothing noble about building a family on the same pillars that were used in building another man's family foundation. The world will laugh at such men. People never tell them across their face but it is what it is. But they know deep down that such men are weak and could not be lovable for the single mother would not have dated him in her prime. He is the man she settled for after ravaging her youth and cashing out her beauty. He is only a fallback retirement plan.

If she was still in her prime, she would not have chosen such a man because she would still be having better options. Men never settled with her in her prime because they saw something they would never tolerate about her. They were alpha men who had multiple options and they had to skip her for a better woman. So, she is now stuck because all the men she wanted did not want to commit to her and all the options at her disposal have been narrowed down to almost none. She has to look for a beta provider who in the other hand was rejected by women because he was of low value. To this woman, this man is better than none at all. she is choosing him because of her desperation.

A woman can never be fulfilled without a man. And that's why in some cases, the woman is well off financially but because this emasculates her, alpha men will never want to touch her. So, she will look for a beta male, not for provision this time around but she wants him to play the other roles. This type of woman is dominant in this kind of relationships and the man has to fall into her frame. According to the patriarchal arrangement, such men are effeminate and they are considered not to be real men.

Submission Is a Form of Control

Marriage is a form of exploitation. The woman is the one controlling the man and not the other way round as per the popular belief. It is confusing and a mind boggle. We always use the word “dominant” In a relationship. Yes, the man is dominant but most time he operates under duress perpetuated by the woman. The woman does not work but controls the man to slave for her. This is why women wear certain colors and you as the man will be bashed if you tried to wear them. They wear this to their advantage. They will dictate that you clip your nails for their own advantage. If you look more feminine than masculine, they would probably not want you. “Masculine” is a derivative of the term “muscle”. These muscles are an indicator that you are a worker. working has nothing to do with you but them. Refer to the 19th-century form of work. It was physical and so the muscles indicated that the man was hardworking. This is why a man's muscles is an integral determinant when it comes to physical attraction.

A woman is subconsciously a user. This is why a man loses her after losing his job. The children get alienated too. If you have to job hop as a man, that only means that you will spend your life in and out of relationships. Probably if you don't have a job to keep you on continuously, you might as well live alone for a lifetime.

A man does not control a woman. The woman controls the man. She is the one who decides what happens to the relationship and not you as the man. She decides whose baby to keep and whose to abort. She is the custodian of the children that you birth and not you as the man.

So, in the real sense, the feminists came to liberate man but the man is so confused he does not know how to embrace change. That's why everyday men are looking for women so that they can slave for them. They are even willing to die for these women.

Women are everyday working tooth and nail to choose men for use. When women crave for a tall man with muscular body, they do not want such men to take photographs with them. They want real workers and protectors and so they must bear the right features.

Bargained Desire Is Short-Lived

Pampering a woman and grooming her to love you using monetary means is totally out of question—not advisable! Money will become the bonding material in the relationship. A relationship should be bound by love and trust first. Let her reciprocate what you feel. Let her love you back and trust that you are a man.

The moment you start negotiating desire by pumping money into the relationship, it becomes the reason of her sticking around. She doesn't love you for you and only loves the money.

A relationship is about giving away and being exploited. But what you are giving should be a reciprocal of the love you are receiving. The gifts and money should come after and not unless you are dealing with a prostitute. Of course, this is common sense, the more you pump money, the more you need to pump it constantly to make the relationship relevant to her.

Women do not feel good when receiving gifts from a man as a negotiation to love him. They always feel like they are being harassed or the man is disturbing them. They only feel thrilled receiving gifts and compliments from the men they want. This stretches to the bedroom too. A woman derives pleasure from the way she treats the man. When the man feels nice, the reciprocal is her feeling nice too. Women are naturally caretakers and tenderers. They derive happiness from taking care of children and everyone around them. That's why they treat men like babies too. Because it is in them to nurture and take care of the things they love. This is why a man should always doubt a woman who does not spoil him with gifts. She doesn't love him.

Marriage Will Always Be the Prize

A marriage union should be forever in normal circumstances. But there is nothing wrong with it being until the day we are no longer willing to stick together because it is not healthy anymore. It is us to understand that marriage is not always about the happy times. We will bask in happy moments and cry sometimes. If you want a partner for the happy times only, it is not going to work. If there is a child in between, she/he is going to suffer. Sometimes, the kid will be deprived of the parent's love.

The problem comes when one partner expects so much from the other one. For example, some women tend to expect so much effort from men while they sleep in their job. Women want a man who can lead. Not just this but they want a man who is wealthy. All these attributes take effort. And sometimes, the effort might never bear any fruits and so it is all about luck. Women want successful men. And not just the grown-up women but the crawling babies too. So, a man must accept that reality first before trying to enter into marriage. And sometimes, a man is not guaranteed of all that. Even after putting in all the energy, he ends up stifling. Is it his fault?

If you cannot be a man and even if you could not control it, just understand that nobody cares. Performance is the man. If you cannot perform as a man, you will be nothing but a frame of a human being. Nobody will recognize you as a man as long as you are not capable of feeding their entitlement. As a man you have to die trying if you have to. Once you blink your eyes and give up, you are finished. Just look at the baby mama culture. Why do you think there are so many kids who got no idea who their father is? Why do we have so many angry women walking the earth? Mostly, the problem is the performance with the man. When a woman starts providing for herself, she becomes the man and so you will be discarded as quickly as possible. She won't be able to see your worth.

The most likely thing a woman would do is to replace you with another man whose performance surpasses yours. The extremely hypergamous woman who is not capable of getting hooked to a high-value man will always wrap multiple beta providers hiding in the umbrella of "single". As seen earlier, a relationship to a woman is like a job. She keeps on earning a salary. Unlike the man who has to keep on pumping capital because it is a sort of business to him. If you see a single woman, nobody wants her or she is playing multiple men hiding under the pseudo of “I am single”.

Mostly when the marriage is nullified, most children go with their mothers. Because children belong to their mothers somehow. A woman is subconsciously wired to root for her offspring. This is why she is dead serious about the man’s performance. Because the lower the performance, the more easily her offspring’s life will be inconvenienced.

A woman does not need the frame of a man. The statue means nothing. She only recognizes what you can do for her. That's why you hear women swearing that there are no men yet single men are all over. The ratio of men to women is 1:7. Meaning every woman should have a man. But the problem is due to those dynamics. The ratio is proliferated from 1:7 to 1:40 because women are not scared of dating one high-value man in a harem. The problem is performance.

This is why a woman would conceive with one of her seven boyfriends only to choose her kid a father who can comfortably cater for the child's needs. This is why paternity fraud is high. Yes, you are handsome but you are poor. She will make a baby with you and then block you. She knows who to commit paternity fraud to. Being a biological father costs zero dimes. Anybody can be that. being a present father is expensive but not anybody can manage that.

A man must learn how to perform. This is why all men need skills. Men need more side hustles to make money. This is why I have always thought that aborting your son as an embryo is better than birthing him only to never give him a skill in life. Even apprenticeship can do. Give him education, teach him a skill, give him a legacy. Without this, you are only a birther and not a parent. Your child will live all his life being dead inside. teach him about consistency. Pinpoint his talents and nurture them. hold conversations with him and let him know why he needs to do it. Let him know how it affects his future.

A girl too should be prepared for adulthood and marriage. when the boys are sorted, girls will automatically have no reason to become baby Mamas. A kid needs both parents. If he is fully providing for his family where would the problems crop up from? If the children are fully housed, and their medical cover and education catered for, whether in marriage or not where would the term baby Mama and deadbeat come from?

99% baby Mamas are bitter and dramatic because they have to fend for themselves and their children. The man could not take care of them and so they had to look for a way out. Life changes. Some of these men succeed in life but they cannot go back to their old families because both parties feel betrayed. I do not have any doubt that men are nice people. if he is a defaulter, which by far cannot be justified, do not hurl insults. Be as wise as a serpent. It is not about you but your children.

Marriage is the prize when you have the means to fuel it, have a dream partner and a best friend. Some people compromise this only to succumb to their shortcomings. The lower your performance as a man the more likely you are able to settle with a partner who is not really your spec because she has to compromise some aspects. This is why men settle for masculine women who are only looking for men to feel accomplished. The man only picks the one he finds willing to tolerate his shortcomings. So, your soul as the man would always be hurting because you're not really satisfied with her. You are only together because she was the only one willing to set the bar low for you. Until you unleash your full potential then you'll be able to be with whomever you want. do not concentrate on getting married. Concentrate on performance.

Don't Pick the Ones in The Finish Line

Most men are always working tooth and nail to better their lives. 20-year-old men experience hiccups in the dating pool because women do not want to be with them because their value is minimal. They must proliferate their value first before any woman comes onboard. However, the most solid relationships are the ones the woman tamed her hypergamy and walked with the man along the racing tracks as his helper. Many modern women are not willing to do this. This is why most average men experience hiccups in the dating arena. What these men experience is similar to what a 40-year-old woman experiences in the dating pool.

Instead of looking for means to complement their men's provisions, if on the lower side, most women choose to jilt the man for another man who is able to take care of her needs. In the world of equality where both genders are equalized, this should not be happening. Many women believe that men should work for money and wealth before inviting them onboard. Such women are not willing to walk alongside the man to build a future but they want to pounce on a ready-made future. This is why most of the richest women in the world got all their wealth from divorce. And this is why many men fear divorce to an extent of not wanting to marry. Women initiate divorce to get a share of the man's hard-earned wealth.

In the real sense, nobody has wealth and money. We work hard and brainstorm to come up with ideas that will generate income. So, when someone comes only to take advantage of what another has already worked on rather than chipping in to complement their efforts, it becomes outright exploitation. If a woman has to hang in the finish line to have the winners, that makes her a fraudster. A wise man will never pick such a woman. Because he is aware that those types of women are serpents. And it does not matter if they have a lot of money in their accounts. They know they are the wrong women for them. Such women have messed up billionaires and left them as broke as church mice. They could not choose them when they were struggling. It is because of the ulterior motives they harbor; this is why they are eager to choose them now. A few foolish men would choose such women. Their chances of being fed steel wool are close to 100%.

Some marriages are seen as marriages from outside but they are nothing but casual engagements. Casual engagement might look the same as marriage especially when someone has money and wealth. Some men after getting money, because of scarcity mindset that ravaged them when they did not have it, they end up settling for someone that they would not want to be with when they eventually get it.

In marriage, both parties ought to accept all the outcomes of life. This is why the phrase “for richer, for poorer” exists. Sometimes it's hard. There are pains to bear and the two of you must share both sides of it. You must be together in happiness and sadness and not only during the happy times. Sometimes you are poor and homeless and sometimes you are okay.

In casual engagements, one is a parasite. They are only there to share the happiness and blissful moments. Their main aim is pleasure all through which cannot happen in real life. So, these types of people will leave the table when life flips to the other side. Such a person cannot be termed as “wife” but quite a number of people have posed as wives and finished the man completely. A woman who only asks to be with you only in the happy times is a low-key hookup girl. You cannot do serious things with such women for you will end up dead or in jail. All women are materialistic like that but others can tame the greed if they want to.

Most women who hang in the finish line are always extremely materialistic. Many men went down due to engagement with extremely materialistic women. Betting arenas, graves and jails are full of such men. If a woman is obsessed with materialism, no matter how long it takes, she is eventually going to bring her man down. A woman who is driven by an expensive taste yet she does not have her own money to quench this craving is bad news. If she is driven by a need to flex, just leave her alone. That kind of a woman can never be loyal to anybody throughout for she will always be loyal to her need and feelings only. She is only interested in the readily available value but she is not willing to propagate it. If the readily available value decreases, she is going to monkey branch.

Women to Avoid

Flirtatious women

These ones have multiple men in their circles. Check out their private messages. They are full of dudes and each one of them thinks that he's got a chance with her because she made him think so.

Selfish woman

Everything revolves around her. She is entitled and dictates that you should do this and that for her. “Oh, a real man should take care of me and my children.”

To her, a real man should be like this and that.

The materialistic

“Oh, my man should buy me a Porsche. Oh, my man should buy me this and that shit.”

The acrimonious

This one expects so much. And have dated multiple men who dumped her. She was flung to the streets for a reason. This is why she is bitter. To her, men are dogs. Let her lament as she runs the streets. Leave that one alone.

The party animal

This one is always hanging out with friends and knows who got a wedding and a bash and which Saturday. She is always excited by these. This one can give you pressure because you did not hold a party for her birthday. Drop this one like hot iron.

Daddy's Girl

This one grew up in affluent estates almost being spoon-fed everything. You can try and marry this one if you have the guts—just go ahead and find out on your own.

The attention seeker

This one is all over the place doing all sorts of things like uploading her naked photos on Facebook just for likes. That's a red flag and you should run as fast as you can.

The rumor monger

This one is always meddling in people's businesses and knows everything that happened to whom and how. She loves hanging out with random women to gossip—let that one marry herself.

The flippant one

Any disrespectful woman is egotistical. Disrespect is a sign that she could be masculine. Femininity excludes disrespect. That one is a female man (I am not saying that men should be disrespectful), let her marry instead.

Are They in Survival Mode?

It is hard to show romantic gestures to people who are in survival mode. Someone is hustling to get something to eat or rent and you are buying them flower bouquets worth half their rent? They will be triggered and they are going to insult you for not assisting them in making their lives easier.

Dating someone in survival mode could be somehow exhausting. For instance, you have to afford them by taking care of them before they can reciprocate the love you are trying to show them. At least, someone has to be alive first before they can think of love. Someone who is in survival mode is struggling to live another day. People in survival mode are looking for someone to be useful to them rather than romantic.

But you can look at them in the eyes and see another human being. Maybe you could cancel the romance part and try and be there. What if you are capable and you just helped them in little ways? If you love someone enough, why can't you assist them as they figure out their lives?

If you are attracted to someone in survival mode, the best gesture would be to go out of your way to assist them figure out things in little ways. It would never hurt if you did for them something they would appreciate. By the end of the day, we ought to have done things for the people we love.

But how would you feel if you knew deep down that they would not want anything to do with you if your love with them does not take care of their needs and pockets or add anything to their status? You would definitely feel used. This is why you should avoid people in survival mode if you know deep down that you are not a philanthropist.

The physiology of biological organisms is designed in such a manner that it will always attempt to regulate what happens to the organism. If the organism is in survival mode, that means there will be a responsive mechanism. This will hinder the slightest attempt of this organism to multiply. Love is a reaction of chemicals in an organism's body that makes the prototype to have a need of raising an offspring. Nature will block this attempt through crippling the chemicals that catalyze the desire to propagate love as an illusion. This makes an organism in survival mode to be the least suitable for breeding.

Scrutinize Her Past

If you look around you, you will realize that some women do not even show an inch of regret after a breakup. They use phrases like, “kuoga na kurudi soko.” (Bathing and returning to the dating market). She does not care whether you leave her or not. If you break up with her today, there will be no time to waste for the next minute she will be in another relationship without guilt. Women who say such things and behave in such ways are those ones who have a history of having dated many men.

A woman with a clean past is always stably attached to her man and the slightest sign of a breakup would stress her big time. She will be emotional if the guy threatens to leave and she will kneel down begging him to stay. The higher the penile mileage, the lower the ability to bond with a man. High penile mileage makes a woman numb and devoid of feelings. She is a sex doll to be used for casual sex.

A man should thoroughly scrutinize a woman's past. He should always dig up who and who she's been with. He should snoop her phone to ascertain who she's communicating with. Judge her harshly because this will save you a lot of pain. There are zero tendencies of men to succeed where others failed. They are likely to sink as fast as others who came before them if they ignore her dick-full past. The ones glorifying “kuoga na kurudi soko” as nothing happened are outright red flags. Those ones have seen more penises than the sand of the ocean. A man should not dive into a furnace in front of his eyes. He should not ignore these red flags because choices will always have consequences.

Women Only Care About a Man's Future

A woman does not care about a man's past. She only cares about his future. She wants a secure future by all means. Women predict men's futures. And many men have heard the phrase, “I left you because you have no future.”

And this is why single women are more heartbroken than the broke ones. Because the financial future of a woman lies in her relationship and not in her own hands. This explains why empowered women care what a man does for a living. This explains why “independent” women need 20k urgently. It doesn't matter how empowered a woman is but she will always demand a man's assistance. This is why she fumes if she had to assist a man even if she was capable. If a man succeeds, many other people succeed including children of single mothers. If a woman succeeds, only her family and herself succeed. 99% of women's financial future do not lie on the jobs they work but the men they date.

If it all goes as they anticipate, no woman wants to date a man who has nothing material to offer. Because it is always about the future of her kids even though it is confusing why it matters that the provider has to be the man. Why is the empowered and capable woman dictating that the man has to be the provider? That only renders her empowerment useless. Does she need surplus, and what for? This is why men are discouraged from siring children with random women who are not their wives. There are serious ramifications when men choose to be strumpets. It will outright affect their future and especially if they happen to succeed. It will outright affect the future of his legacy, his legitimate children and immediate family and he will be forced to compensate for it, even when he is long dead. Most women show up when the man dies to confront his corpse. They have claims to make. They could not show up before the death of the man because they were in bad terms and they were unruly, he chooses to ignore them. Most men of these kinds are always regretting their actions.

When the man is poor and he has already committed the sweet accident of siring with a woman out of wedlock, or let's say the woman realizes later that the man is poor, she will jilt him, weaponize her child and alienate him because the father has nothing to offer. He is not “worthy” and so she ghosts him with her child until the day he dies if he ever becomes successful. This is when she will show up to claim a share of his fortune. Because to many women, marriage is a poverty alleviation scheme. This is why a man's future matters to her. As women strain hard to make sure that a man's future is secured, men too on the other hand should always strive to make sure that a woman's past is as clean as a non-blemish lamb. If a man's future is not secured, she will automatically reject him. A man should do the same without hesitation.

She Hates Weak Men

Nobody cares about a man. He is all on his own. Nobody cares about your mental health as a man. You have to prioritize your mental health on your own. This does not come from your partner or anybody else. That door opens from inside.

Do not vent to a woman no matter who that woman is. Women are wired to loathe weak men. If you have problems, solve them on your own. Your mother might understand you at some point because she was with you when you could not manage to take yourself to the toilet. She had you at your weakest point. But you should not get it twisted. She too could get irritated by your weakness as her son. This is why she yelled and shamed you when you cried as a child. She indoctrinated you by telling you that men do not cry.

The truth of the matter is, as a man, you will encounter many problems in this world. It is you to learn how to handle them. Do not whine all the time. Take it on your hands and deal with it. do not show the problems of this world your back. You would rather crawl on a hill of thorns than show women your tears. Wait until the day the world will agree that men have feelings too and are supposed to connect with their emotions like everyone else.

A woman will never choose a man because of his weakness. If you show her that side, she will hate you. As a man, go and vent to the bartender and your God. The truth is, nobody's coming to save you. You can only save yourself. You can take your own life if you feel it is going to ease your pain. But before that, try and not be an escapist. Be downtrodden and still show up.

A long time ago, I used to dig toilets. One time, we were doing a hole that was too rocky. We were in the company of a guy who was on the verge of death. He was suffering from opportunistic diseases as an aftermath of AIDS. I could tell he was seriously sick but he did not mind. He would crawl into the hole with a mallet. I watched him hammer the rocks one by one with difficulty. He was eager to earn himself something.

One day, we left work around 5:00 PM. The following morning, he did not show up. We learned that the man had died peacefully in his sleep. Only death stopped him. I tried to think about him for a long time. His memories have never left me after so many years. He never picked a bowl to beg, he never went to his relatives, and he never took away his life. He died as a man. The world dictates that if someone has a scrotum dangling between his legs. He has to earn it. By living in the forest and using a log as a pillow. Somehow, the world expects a man to save the world and not to be saved.

The Reverse of Hypergamy

As seen earlier on, women are naturally hypergamous. This is the intelligent design of the universe. Nobody should try to change them or lament about it. Nobody can be able to change it no matter how hard they try. Women feel secured when with someone who is above them in all aspects. This is why they will always jilt a man who sacrifices without recognizing the efforts he makes to assist her in advancing her education. They will leave that man in search of another one who is way above them.

It is not wrong when a man assists a woman to upgrade but he should always make sure that her level won't be above his even after upgrade. Because the woman will walk out on such man and never flinch. No considerations, and no feelings. They won't look back or recognize the sacrifice the man made. They are not wired like that. When a man sacrifices for a woman he always gets punished in the end. Because his sacrifices mean nothing to her.

The opposite of hypergamy is post-nut clarity. Men are always blind before sex. They will never know whether you are worthy their commitment and not until you have sex with them. You are always beautiful and charming before you give in to their advances. After sex, they will become conscious of themselves. They will now start noticing the woman's flaws. They will notice her gigantic forehead, her nagging, lack of education etc.

They will realize that you are not worth committing to. They realize that they do not need you as such. That's why some men feel guilty after sex. They start regretting and feeling awful they had to risk their health, time and money for someone who is not worth it. They will despise their stupid actions after realizing how stupid they were, for letting their lust deceive them. They won't care about such women anymore. They will avoid them by all means. This is why she will now start lamenting,

“He just used and dumped me.”

Post-nut clarity is as ruthless as hypergamy. These two do not care about anybody's feelings.

Moving On in Men and Women Diverges

Men and women do not move on after heartbreak the same way. As a man, the most effective and safe way of moving on from a heartbreak is not immediately dating another woman. That way, the man would not have healed properly and this would unanimously jeopardize his healing process. A relationship is like being on the battlefield for a man and that means he would not have healed properly to be able to win that war.

The best way for a man to heal himself after a breakup is to invest in personal growth. A man must uplift himself financially by picking new habits, reading and developing new hobbies so that the reciprocal of this would be his growth. Men who grow in all aspects are able to attract better women. This only means that the man who focuses on himself after a breakup will be able to get an upgrade of the previous woman he broke up with in the previous relationship.

A man will never be equal to a woman in a relationship. Women can move on easily credit to their hypergamous nature. A man does not have this feature so he cannot move in this manner. Women tie the value of the relationship to the man they are dating. The men will always gauge themselves by the value of their achievements and what they are bringing to the table.

People can scream about the 50/50 scenario in a relationship but by the end of the day, the man wants to be dominant in the relationship. So, it's funny some men always think that it would be possible to get a submissive woman who provides for them. Somehow, equality will always be flawed and not unless someone intervenes. A woman is either below or above a man it seems. And the man has to choose. No man wants to date a woman above him.

Once the woman finds a guy better than the current one, she will quickly jilt him and move on. If such guy never existed, she will find a reason to stick with the current guy even if he is not perfect.

Women heal by replacing the previous weak man with a more dominant male. So, the best way for a man to gauge himself is looking to see if his exes keeps on trying to come back. Exes will always try to come back if they were not able to replace the man with another one who is more dominant.

Similarly, men heal not by replacing the previous woman with another who is more beautiful and charming. They heal by becoming a better version of themselves. If he acquires new skills and improves himself the reciprocal is an upgraded version of life. This will attract better women than the ones he used to attract previously and will have him laughing off the type of women he used to rock with.

Women replace men with others. Men replace women not with others but by becoming a better version of themselves.

For Every Woman

The more beautiful you are, the more you might develop an abundance mindset that might deceive you in your 20s when your sexual market value is at the peak. Do not let this deceive you. Let this not make you delusional. Do not be tempted to engage yourself in a penis circus. There is a heavy price to pay after that. Do not cash out your beauty currency. The shelf-life of a promiscuous woman is around 12 years (18-33). A smart woman must submit to one man and create a family. Nobody will accept you in old age, and not even the multiple men you engage intimacy with in your prime. You will be on your own. When the party is over, you will be looking for one idiot as a fallback plan and it will be in vain.

High penile mileage with different men deprives you of your dignity. Seeing more corks than in a bottling plant is not good for you. Not subscribing to simple moral codes is not a good character.

You are hypergamous in nature. You are not wired to recognize his sacrifice. You are always rooting for a bigger, better deal. You are automatically attracted to a man above yours. You cannot control it, and you are not evil. Let's hope your man understands this and ups his game.

Don't hang onto the finish line to pick the winners. They have owners. If they don't have, they can see through you. They will deceive you. Walk along one runner—otherwise, you are finished. If you decide to engage yourself in a cork circus, make sure you become very rich. This way, you will be able to purchase one beta male when you hit 35. Only money can somehow break the great wall of all times. Just understand you might never be happy because the man won't be loving you genuinely. He only loves the benefits but not you.

What Every Man Must Know

Choose yourself over a woman. She doesn't care. She is never yours, only your turn. Never pedestalize a woman. Reject older women with high penile mileage. Work on your value everyday, always wake up and show up.

Do not ejaculate in random women without protection.

Do not pay any woman after sex.

Don't ask a woman about her body count or age for you will automatically know. Their body count is always two at maximum. If she is 22, add 17. If she is a single mum, add 200(gross!).

Do not invest in any woman who is not your relative. And if you have to, do not use more than what you cannot afford to lose.

When involved in a physical confrontation with a woman, defend yourself as you would do with a man. Her life is not more special than yours. Be gentle to those who respect you only.

Don't make the center of your existence a woman.

Never force yourself on a woman. They show you directly how useless you are because of your broke-ness but you keep chasing them. This is the story of a gazelle chasing the predator. Understand the dynamics of life and mind your business. Nothing is guaranteed in life. Yours is to do the right thing. Whether you are going to succeed or not, yours is only to do the right thing. Let the universe decide. A man should only learn to hustle his gold and women will automatically come.
